Koreans Open Fierce Drive On War Front

Communists Rip Allied Line, Hold Against Counterattacking Rok

SEOUL (AP)—A beefed-up North Korean battalion ripped through a main line Allied position on the eastern front today and held stubbornly against counterattacking South Koreans.

Some 750 to 1,000 Reds overran three Rok outposts ahead of the main line, then slammed through the line itself in four spots east of Luke's Castle, where bloody fighting has raged for a week.

Another North Korean battalion tore into a South Korean outpost on Bloody Ridge on the east-central front. The Rok met the attack ahead of the outpost but were hurled back in desperate hand-to-hand fighting.

Two prongs of the attack on Luke's Castle area penetrated the main Allied line about 500 yards apart, caving in South Korean positions.

The Reds drove 500 yards into Allied territory, an Eighth Army briefing officer reported.

COUNTER-ATTACKING Rok 12th Division troops, in battle almost steadily since Monday, slammed the Reds back about 250 yards but were cut short as the North Koreans hurled grenades from higher slopes.

At last report the battle, which raged through the night, continued at close range.

On Bloody Ridge, the furiously attacking Communists stormed the outpost slopes and, at last report, the Rok had withdrawn to the Outpost Center and were streaming mortar and artillery fire on the Reds.

Fighting has been almost continuous on the eastern front hill mass since Monday night when the North Koreans got their first foothold on the tip of Luke's Castle terrain.

30 Million Italian Voters Await Election

ROME (AP)—A law-enforced pre-election calm settled over Italy today as the nation's 30 million voters prepared to ballot for their second postwar parliament.

The voting begins Sunday and will continue Monday. At stake are 590 seats in the Chamber of Deputies and 237 in the Senate.

Confronting the voters are three clearly-marked choices:

1. The middle-of-the-road four-party coalition headed by Premier Alcide De Gasperi, whose pro-United States, pro-European unity government has guided Italy for the past seven years. This center bloc is composed of De Gasperi's Christian Democrats, Republicans, Liberals and Moderat Socialists.

2. The Moscow-facing extreme left of Palmiro Togliatti's Communist party—the biggest this side of the Iron Curtain—and Pietro Nenni's leftwing Socialists.

3. The backward-looking extreme right made up of monarchists and the neo-Fascist Italian Social Movement, which has shown a surprising increase of strength since the end of the war.

Ferguson Hopes Dems Shun Politics In Air Fund Dispute

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Ferguson (R-Mich.) said today he hopes Democratic senators "don't make a political matter" of the sizzling dispute about Air Force cutbacks.

Ferguson, chairman of the appropriations subcommittee now considering new funds and spending limits on all defense agencies, said that even the Eisenhower budget might be safely "reduced in some items."

Gen. Hoyt S. Vandenberg, retiring Air Force head, concluded late Friday three full days of testimony in opposition to cutbacks proposed for the Air Force in the Eisenhower budget.

These would trim Former President Truman's request for new funds by $5 billion and lower the 1955 air power goal from 143 to 120 wings.

Vandenberg insisted that a 143-wing Air Force is the minimum level needed to meet the threat of expanding Soviet Russian air power. A wing contains from 30 heavy bombers to 75 smaller aircraft.

Secretary of Defense Wilson, who engineered the Air Force cutback with the aid of Deputy Secretary of Defense Kyes and

Assistant Secretary of Defense McNeil, will return to the Senate committee's witness stand Monday.

Asked to comment on Vandenberg's testimony, Wilson said: "I think the people will be surprised to know how close together we are."

Houston Blast Fatal To 4

Fireworks Storage Area Blows Up

HOUSTON (AP)—Over 40,000 pounds of holiday fireworks exploded here Friday, killing four people, injuring 73 others and causing $3 million damage.

Mayor Roy Hofheinz immediately ordered an investigation as to why the explosives were stored inside the city limits.

The explosion smashed practically everything in the block surrounding the Alco Fireworks and Specialty Company warehouse. At least a dozen homes blazed, fired by flying wreckage. Other homes gaped open on crowd-filled streets, their windows ripped out, roofs stripped and sides sheared away.

The blast was accompanied by a towering mushroom cloud of white smoke. The cause apparently can be traced to a hammer being used by Kenneth B. Williams, 35, Alco's general manager.

HE HAD MINOR injuries. He was driving nails into the framework of a pressed-paper display containing explosives.

"I either hit the gerb (cylinder) with the hammer or struck a spark off one of the nails," Williams said. "The whole place was blown up in 15 seconds."

The charred bodies of the four killed were found in the ruins of a small cottage that had stood only 20 feet from the warehouse.

John Walton, a clothing store department manager, collapsed when he was told his entire family had burned to death. They were his wife Jean, 25, and their two children, Cathy, 4, and John Jr., 2.

Park Program Begins Monday

Circleville's 1953 Ted Lewis Park Summer playground program will get underway at 1 p. m. Monday.

This year's annual playground program, directed by Dick Boyd and assisted by Beverly Reid, will be in operation from 1 p. m. until 5 p. m. each weekday afternoon until Aug. 1.

All school-age youngsters of the city are invited to participate in the program, which is co-sponsored by Circleville Kiwanis Club and the city board of education.

Monday's opening program will consist largely of registration activities.

Body Recovered

IRONTON (AP)—The body of an unidentified man, believed to have been a transient who met with foul play, was found Friday stuffed in a culvert near here. Coroner Harry Nenni estimated the man had been dead six months.

Association meeting in Sioux City Friday night, Wilson said funds available to the Air Force "are ample to continue a rapid buildup in its effective strength."

He said the money program had been analyzed not only by defense officials "but by the National Security Council and the President himself."

"I know of no one in the whole world more competent to judge such matters than our President."

"Apparently I am in the peculiar position of a son who goes to his dad for money and his dad insists on the son taking more money than he wants or needs or even thinks is good for him."

Ferguson's comment came after he had listened to a series of questions put to Vandenberg by committee Democrats, including Hill of Alabama, McClellan of Arkansas and Maybank of South Carolina.

Their questions indicated they might fight to restore the long-range 143-wing goal and whatever billions that goal needed.

Ferguson claimed that the Air Force had been unable to spend from four to eight billions voted by Congress in recent years.

He said it had fallen short of all plane production goals since start of the Korean War in mid-1950.

Vandenberg and other Air Force generals conceded this was true but said that, until Congress votes the funds, they can not even place orders for aircraft that require two or more years for production.

Huge Tankers Collide, Burn; Seaman Dies

WILMINGTON, Del. (AP)—One of America's largest seagoing tank ships was sliced in two today in a collision with another giant oil carrier in Delaware Bay.

Eighty-two crewmen of 86 aboard the two ships that burst quickly into flames leaped into the water or boarded lifeboats and were rescued.

The Red Cross listed Joseph Donnelly, 45, of Marcus Hook, Pa., as the only man known dead. He was a crewman making his first trip. Three men are missing, the Red Cross said.

The bow of the tanker Phoenix sank to the bottom of the Delaware River 40 miles south of Philadelphia. Still flaming at dawn, the ship lay a blackened and charred hulk a few hundred yards from the New Jersey shore.

Only a few years old, the Phoenix had a capacity of nine million gallons of petroleum products and when she was launched was the nation's largest.

A shiplength or two away, the 11,081-ton tanker Pan Massachusetts burned fiercely. Her main deck had sunk to the water level.

Versions of what happened from members of both ships indicated there was a mixup in signals between the two huge tankers as to how they were going to pass each other.

Draft Chiefs, Army Debate Liability Of Youths Who Join National Guard

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Army and Selective Service told apparently conflicting views of the draft liability of some members of the National Guard.

An Army manpower officer said today that a man who enlists in the National Guard after he has reached 17 years of age and before he becomes 18½ is exempted from the draft if he serves actively in a recognized guard unit for eight consecutive years.

A Selective Service spokesman, however, said that most National Guardsmen, except those with prior federal service, will be subject to induction until their 35th birthday.

Both viewpoints are based upon the same law, the Universal Military Training and Service Act of 1951.

The Army interpretation cites a section which permits the National Guard of any state, upon the governor's proclamation that it is not possible to maintain the guard strength otherwise, to enlist guardsmen before they are 18½ years old. This section of the law states that such guardsmen will be deferred from induction.

Selective Service bases its statement on another section which says no person may be inducted after he has attained age 26 "except that persons deferred remain liable for induction until age 35."

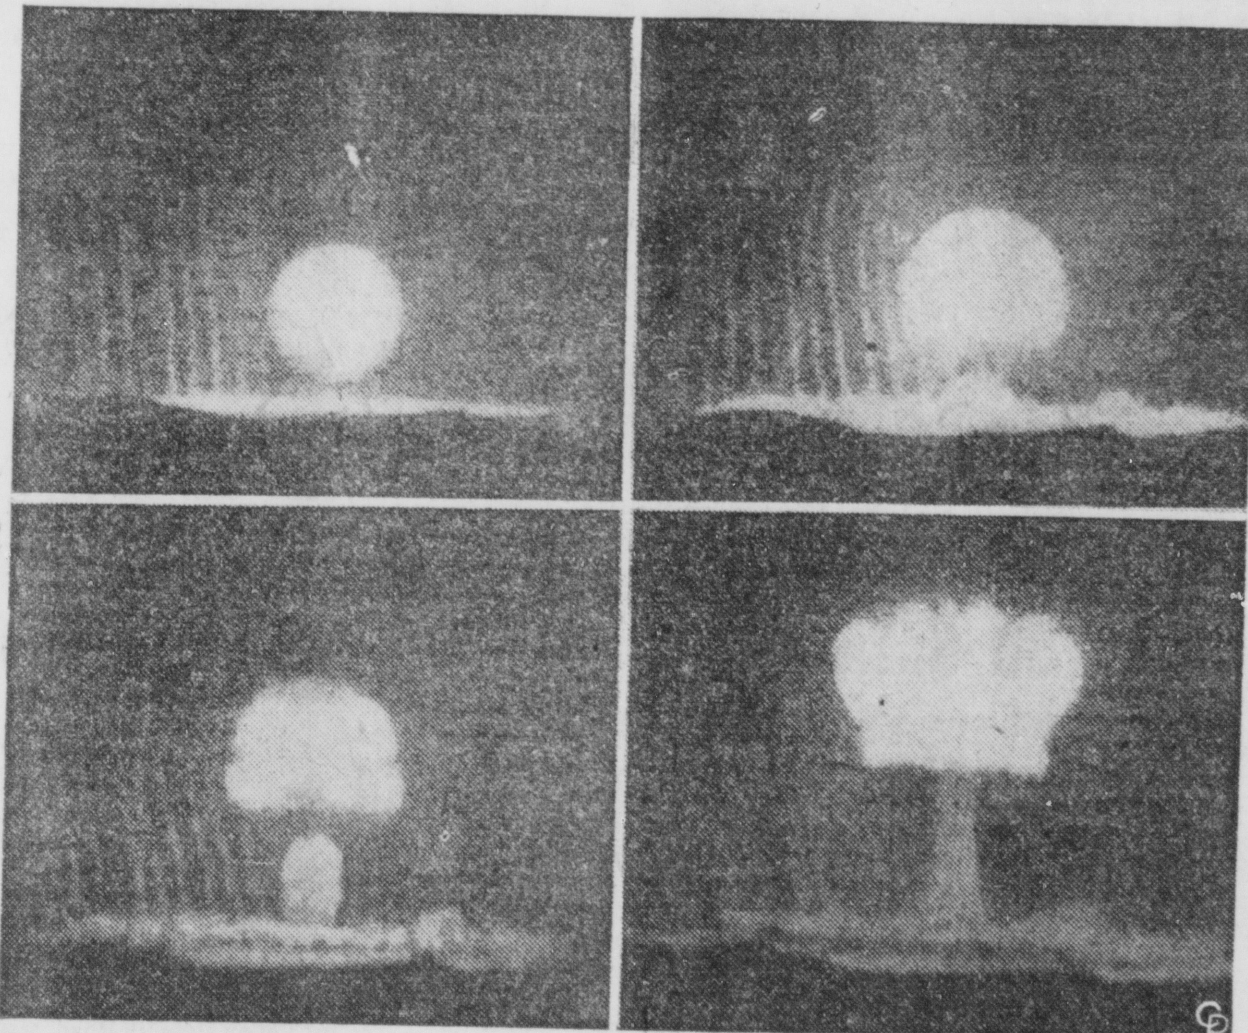

A Selective Service spokesman said the law was perfectly clear on this point and that he knew of no modifying directive.

Apparently the divergence of opinion has not been tested. The 1951 act provided that men who were members of Organized Reserve or guard units on Feb. 1, 1951, were deferred from draft duty so long as they continued to be active and satisfactory members for eight consecutive years. The test may be delayed until 1951—eight years after the act went into effect, unless the law is changed.

Assistant Secretary of Defense Hannah recently proposed a tightening of the act to end the temporary deferment of men who voluntarily joined the National Guard before they became 18½.

This proposal was referred to the military services for comment and recommendations. So far no decision has been reached by the Defense Department as to whether Congress will be asked to make this change.

THESE FOUR VIEWS show the huge fireball forming from the 11th and latest explosion of what may have been the most violent atomic blast ever set off in the United States. The scenes were made from Angels Peak near the blast site, when a top-secret experimental device inside an A-bomb casing, dropped from an Air Force B-50, exploded about 2,000 feet above the Yucca Flat proving ground, 65 miles northwest of Las Vegas, Nevada. The terrific blast was seen as far away as San Francisco.

2 Leading GOP Senators OK Taft's Idea For Pacific NATO

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senators Wiley (R-Wis.) and H. Alexander Smith (R-N.J.) endorsed today a proposal by Sen. Taft (R-Ohio) that the U. S. seek a military alliance with Britain, France and other allies to counter communism in the Far East.

Wiley, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said he thinks an alliance similar to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization in Europe ought to be formed in the Pacific.

But whereas Taft suggested the U. S. "disentangle" itself from the U. N. to form such a Far Eastern pact, Wiley said it ought to be undertaken under the UN charter's provision for regional arrangements.

"We have separate treaties with Australia, New Zealand, Japan and the Philippines," Wiley noted. "The

Big Steel, Union Parley Continues

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Pay negotiations resume Tuesday between the CIO United Steelworkers and U. S. Steel Corp. with only three weeks left before the union is free to strike.

Talks recessed Friday after three straight days of secret bargaining. The union wants a general wage increase, amount unspecified, for 600,000 USW members, in basic steel who now average between $2.06 and $2.16 an hour. About 170,000 of these are employed by U. S. Steel.

Stratojet Sets New Speed Mark

FAIRFORD, England (AP)—An American Stratojet B-47 clipped six minutes off the U. S. to England crossing record today. The aircraft sped the 3,120 mile distance from Limestone Air Base in Maine to this training field in Central England in exactly five hours and a half.

The previous fastest flight from the United States was five hours, 36 minutes, made Friday by two other B-47s. Today's average speed was 556 mph.

Hospital Slices Proposed Boost

COLUMBUS (AP)—The Cleveland Hospital Service Association has sliced an estimated $3 million a year off a new rate proposal and the squabble over the new rates has been settled.

Walter A. Robinson, state superintendent of insurance, Friday announced his approval of the compromise rate increase application. It increases rates to Blue Cross subscribers by an average 27.7 per cent. The association originally asked a 33.4 per cent increase.

3 Critically Hurt As Auto Strikes Bridge

Two men and a woman were injured critically early Saturday when their auto struck a cement bridge on Route 23, about one mile south of Route 762.

The accident happened at about 5:50 a. m. Saturday when a speeding southbound auto applied its brakes on a left turn approaching the bridge.

State Patrolman Gene Miller and Deputy Carl White said Carlin Martin, who lives close to the scene of the crash, said he saw the auto swerve to the right side of the highway when the brakes were applied, then swing back to the left.

The auto, operated by William Ingram, 21, of Lockbourne Air Force Base, then smashed headon into the east side of the bridge.

INGRAM and two passengers in the car were severely hurt in the crash, which demolished the front end of the car.

A passenger, Alice O'Connor, 42, of Columbus, was rushed into Mercy Hospital, Columbus, for emergency treatment. She was treated for fractures of both arms, a leg fracture and a possible skull fracture. Her condition late Saturday morning was reported "fair."

Ingram and another passenger, Maurice Langbein, 37, of Columbus, both were given emergency treatment in St. Francis hospital, Columbus.

Ingram suffered multiple fractures and a possible skull fracture, and Langbein suffered a possible skull fracture. Both were listed in "serious" condition late Saturday morning.

Actor William Farnum, 76, Dies

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Death from cancer has taken William Farnum, 76, square-jawed stage and silent-screen idol.

The silver-haired actor, who remained clear-eyed and witty despite a year of illness, died here Friday in a hospital.

He was a ranking matinee idol when he came to Hollywood in 1914 and appeared in a film version of a Rex Beach novel, "The Spoilers." His first movie, despite many later successes, was destined to be his best-remembered. It featured his knock-down brawl with actor Tom Santchi—still the standard by which movie fights are judged.

Allied, Red Aides To Meet Again Tonight

Mushrooming Reports Say Agreement Near To End Korean War

PANMUNJOM (AP)—Allied and Communist negotiators met in tight secrecy for 19 minutes today as mushrooming reports of near agreement on the key issue of prisoner exchange bolstered hopes for an armistice in Korea.

There was no official hint of what went on inside the conference hut, but an authoritative South Korean source said "no new proposal was made by either side."

The Reds asked for and got a recess until 11 a. m. Sunday (9 p. m. EST Saturday). The South Korean source indicated without elaboration that progress might be made then.

He described the atmosphere inside the conference hut today as businesslike — "neither good nor bad."

Other observers said the UN Command probably asked for clarification of an hour-long statement read Thursday by North Korean Gen. Nam Il.

THIS WAS reported to have been a counter-proposal virtually paraphrasing the latest UN plan for breaking the long prisoners exchange deadlock, last major barrier to a Korean truce. The Reds were said to have suggested five changes, none of them major.

In Western and Communist capitals around the world hopes mounted that the end of the bloody Korean War was in sight, perhaps before the conflict winds up its third year on June 25.

There was optimism even in Moscow where the official government newspaper Izvestia said:

"It is clear that the sides participating in the talks are extremely close to signing an agreement."

Only in South Korea was there deep gloom.

President Syngman Rhee voiced further violent objections Saturday to the reported armistice terms and unveiled a counter-proposal he sent to President Eisenhower.

Only a few hours earlier, however, Rhee declared that "we would accept almost any proposal the United States asks of us because the United States is the only friendly nation which has done so much for us in the past and who will do much more for us in the future."

TRUCE NEGOTIATORS have met in secrecy since Lt. Gen. William K. Harrison Jr. handed the Communists on May 25 a "now or never" plan to break the prisoner exchange deadlock.

After Saturday's session Lt. Col. Milton Herr, official UN spokesman, would say only that the meetings were still in executive session.

This places the cloak of secrecy around at least the opening of Sunday's session. One source here said negotiators might be waiting until all loose ends are tied up before any announcement is made.

South Korea's truce delegate, Maj. Gen. Choi Duk Shin, again boycotted Saturday's session.

The boycott, which began with the May 25 session, is to protest armistice terms Rhee and other South Korean government leaders have branded "unacceptable," a "death sentence" and a "sellout."

Perfect Student Gives Formula

COLUMBUS (AP)—Ohio State University's "perfect" student today outlined this formula for scholastic success:

"Take studying as it comes and enjoy your work."

Robert A. Schachter, 21, of Cleveland Heights, should know what he's talking about. The personable accounting major will be graduated next Friday as the first male student in OSU history to attain a perfect "A" average for four years of undergraduate work.

Bigamist Cited

CANTON (AP)—Enoch J. Carter, 25, has been convicted of bigamy in his marriages to two teen-age girls. Police said Carter married a 15-year-old girl in August, 1951, and married a 17-year-old girl last September without getting a divorce.

further ahead and now hold about one-half of the forward ridge of the castle.

On the western front, other South Korean troops killed an estimated 100 of 300 Chinese who attacked an outpost southwest of Kelly Hill before midnight Friday.

The Reds pounded the outpost with 3,000 mortar and artillery shells in the 2½-hour fight.

There was speculation the Communists stepped up the fighting along the eastern and east-central fronts, despite signs that a truce may be imminent, for two reasons:

1. To gain ground for the time when a buffer zone between the present battlelines is set up after a truce.
2. To weaken the South Koreans, who man that part of the front.

The South Koreans have threatened to continue the fighting in the event of a truce.

Two Men Hurt Seriously In Headon Crash

Two men suffered serious, possibly crippling injuries late Friday in a headon crash of two automobiles south of Circleville.

The headon collision happened at about 7:30 p. m. Friday on Route 23, three miles south of the city.

Deputy Carl Radcliff said Thomas Steinhaber, 51, of Bucyrus, fell asleep at the wheel of his southbound auto.

The Steinhaber car travelled 174 feet on the wrong side of the road, Radcliff said, before smashing headon into a northbound auto operated by Merle Werner, 25, of Piketon.

Front ends of both autos were demolished in the crash. They remained fixed in the highway by the impact.

Steinhaber was treated in Berger hospital for a fractured and gashed right kneecap and a severe forehead laceration. Werner was treated for severe lacerations and severed tendons on his left hand, lacerated lip and cuts on both knees.

Steinhaber later was fined $25 and costs before the court of Magistrate Oscar Root for driving to the left of centerline.

More You Suffer In Empire's Cause, More You Believe In It

By HAL BOYLE

LONDON (AP)—Rain came down on London town and showered a merry-faced elderly lady sitting knitting patiently on the pavement of Trafalgar Square.

Mrs. Hugo Harper was the symbol of all the voiceless millions who have served the British crown in places high and low across the centuries.

She has known sacrifice in her life. So has her family. For 200 years the men of her family and her husband's family had, as she said, "given unbroken service to the crown, mostly in the army, and half of them were lost in action."

She has known sacrifice in her life. So has her family. For 200 years the men of her family and her husband's family had, as she said, "given unbroken service to the crown, mostly in the army, and half of them were lost in action."

"Oh, yes, we've paid the price" she said with quiet pride. "But you expect to pay the price if that's your job."

Mrs. Harper, widowed by the first world war, is now a lecturer in history at Cambridge University, and is studying for a Doctor of Philosophy degree despite her years. She wore a blue Red Cross uniform and on the blouse gleamed a medal given her for her work as a volunteer nurse in the last war.

Sandwiched in a crowd of pavement squatters between a housewife from Devon and another housewife from Lincolnshire, who had brought along five young children, Mrs. Harper had no complaint because she had no seat for the coronation. Nor did she seem to mind sleeping on the pavement during her 33-hour wait to see the queen.

"I waited 21 hours in the rain to see her father crowned," she said, "and I waited 14 hours in the rain and snow to see his funeral cortege pass."

"These ceremonies are the center of our lives, the tokens of our empire and the continuity of 1,000 years of history. When everything seems changing all over the world, it is comforting to have a stabilized realm."

"Why do you think these people are here? At the bottom of it is the simple desire to show their loyalty and support for the crown."

A sound truck passed by then, blaring the tune, "Oh, We Ain't Got a Barrel of Money," and the pavement squatters stood up on their blanket seats and laughed.

"I know I 'aven't," said one.

"I was born on the high seas under the British flag, some where between India and Canada," continued Mrs. Harper.

"Just where I don't remember."

"My father was a doctor, a parson and an army officer. I've lived in India, Bermuda, the West Indies, British Guiana and Canada. My father went to Canada to help the North American Indians during an epidemic in 1914. He's up in the Arctic somewhere now, treating the Eskimos."

"I married and had three sons in three years, and then my husband was a missing officer, killed in France in 1918. I had two sons in the last war, and both were badly wounded."

"My third son?"—a pause, a caught breath, and then more softly—"He was killed by a bomb during a zeppelin raid over Kent in 1916. There were 16 of us in the house at the time, and 14 killed."

A shadow from this long-ago pain darkened her bright blue eyes, as a passing cloud dulls the surface of a lake, and then the light of pride came into them.

"The only point in all this," she said firmly, "is that the more you serve the more tense becomes your loyalty—the more you have suffered in the empire's cause, the more you believe in it."

She stood at the foot of the towering monument to Lord Nelson, who won Britain's greatest naval victory at Trafalgar. And as I looked up at the statue of the famous sea hero he seemed no higher to me than the proud little lady waiting patiently on the pavement—Mrs. Harper, heart of empire, loyal servant of the crown.

'Speeders Lose' Is True Slogan, Merriman Says

"The slogan for the June traffic safety program, 'Speeders Lose,' is more than just a slogan—it's the truth!"

This statement was made today by Police Chief Elmer Merriman in pointing out the most valuable item that speeders lose is their lives.

Out of 1,263 drivers involved in 811 fatal accidents on rural state highways during 1952 in Ohio, 38 per cent of them were reported exceeding a safe speed limit.

In the first place, why do people speed? The usual reasons are (1) to get where they're going faster; (2) to impress others; (3) merely because they are geared to a "speed for speed's sake" philosophy.

Debunking these reasons, Merriman indicated the following fallacies:

- (1) THE DRIVER who's trying to make time by driving at a faster rate of speed than the traffic around him, cutting in and out and racing for the stop lights, often causes time-consuming traffic jams and, in the long run, he doesn't reach his destination any sooner.
- (2) No one is likely to be impressed by excessive speed, since anyone can jam his foot on the accelerator and roar down a street, but it requires good judgment to decide what speed is safe under existing conditions. The driver who follows the latter course is the one who makes the best impressions.
- (3) Excessive speed is hard on the pocketbook. The car that burns up the road at 60 or 70 miles per hour also burns up gas and oil at a much faster rate and wears out tires and brakes before their time.

"Excessive speed just doesn't make sense," Merriman said, "because high speed not only increases the rider's chance of an accident, but greatly increases the chances of being killed in the event of an accident. Certainly, speeders lose!"

Bushong Asked To Make Report

COLUMBUS (AP)—State Auditor James A. Rhodes Friday asked Dr. R. E. Bushong, superintendent of Lima State Hospital, for a report on fees received for testimony at insanity hearings at criminal trials in 1951-52.

Rhodes said the request stemmed from complaints by citizens about fees of $50 a day and expenses charged against counties in court trials for testimony as an expert witness. Rhodes did not identify the complainants.

Best Way To Keep Husband Happy Is Just To 'Feed Him'

By DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Women's Editor

It's easy to keep a husband happy, says young Betty Ossola, blonde and shapely food tycoon, who also is a happy wife and successful mother.

Her formula is simple: "Just feed him."

Most so-called psychological adjustments merely are the result of bad eating, says Betty, who has delved deep into this business of the way to a man's heart. She adds:

"Every woman since Eve has known the time to get something you want from any man is right after dinner. When he's well fed, he's happy and at peace with the world. He's much more likely to say yes after he has been soothed by a steak."

Betty runs one of the country's biggest food companies, Torino Foods, dealing in both imported and domestic delicacies, with an accent on European flavor. Her father, Jack Ossola, founded the business 52 years ago. He handed over its direction to Betty after she completed her course at the University of Pittsburgh and spent a year in Europe developing a gourmet approach.

Since then Betty has been busy educating the American public there are other things to eat besides steak and potatoes. She says: "The trouble with most American women is that they're afraid to use their imaginations when planning meals and preparing food. Because their husbands insist they want 'just plain meat and potatoes' they go along in the same old groove, until the men get fed up with both their meals and their wives."

"A little spice is necessary, in both life and cooking. Everybody needs a change, to keep things interesting. The wife who can make her meals varied and satisfying usually need have no fear of the divorce court."

Betty and her husband, Charles Rossotti, recently gave a cocktail party at their Englewood, N. J., home which still has the neighbors talking. Betty explains her system thus:

"I figure most men are always hungry, so I like to give them something besides dinky canapes and limp crackers. A man needs something he can get his teeth into."

"This time we put a big chafing dish of lentil soup with grated cheese in the middle of the table. Boy, did they go for that! Then we piled up big dishes of every kind of olives and anchovies and various kinds of Italian antipasto. We had crisp bread sticks and lots of things for dunking. People kept coming back for more."

Farmers Advised Keep Hogs Cool For Profits

Farmers can make more money by keeping hogs cool.

Tests in hot weather show pigs under 150 pounds waste seven bushels of grain out of every 10. Pigs between 160 and 260 pounds waste 72 per cent of the feed they consume.

Pregnant sows are the least able to stand the heat. A 542-pound bred sow lost 42 pounds in eight days when the temperature was stepped up gradually from 68 degrees the first day to 96 the fifth and held from 96 to 98 for three days. An open sow that took the same beating lost 33 pounds.

The best ways of keeping hogs cool will vary with the farm. Many growers build portable walls so they can pull from field to field. One hog man designed his big concrete farrowing floor so two sections of it can be used as wallows.

GROUND WALLS can be health hazards for hogs, but one commercial grower removes the risks. He uses a wallow in one spot only a few weeks, then pushes it full of dirt with a bulldozer and starts another in a clean spot.

Spray systems above concrete feeding floors to keep hogs cool can have disadvantages. One grower took care of the mud problem by directing overflow into his field drainage line, but he quit the spray cooler when his hogs developed freckle colds.

He may have had water that was too chilly, because spray coolers proved effective at Texas A and M College.

The most common device to keep hogs cool is a shed, open on all sides. An Illinois farmer pulls his six sheds to new locations when it gets dusty or muddy beneath them.

6 Graduates Due For Recognition In 1st EUB Rite

Six high school graduates will be recognized at 9:30 a. m. Sunday in a special worship service in First Evangelical United Brethren church.

For this "graduate recognition" service, the Rev. Carl L. Wilson will speak from the theme, "God and You," from a scriptural directive in II Timothy 1:6—"Stir up the gift of God, which is in thee." Each graduate will receive a gift from the church school.

Opening the service, Mrs. Verneal Thomas will play a prelude, "Steadfast and True," followed by the Fidelis Chorus processional hymn, "Holy, Holy, Holy."

Church School Superintendent Edwin Richardson will lead the congregation in the call to worship, invocation and the reaffirmation of a common faith in praise, doctrine and prayer.

Congregational hymns will be "Take Time to Be Holy" and "O Master, Let Me Walk with Thee." "Song of My Soul" is the organ offertory, after which a girls' trio of the Fidelis Chorus, consisting of Fern Wise, Ruth Styers and Phyllis Hawkes, will sing an anthem, "I Want My Life to Tell for Jesus."

Speaking from the text in II Timothy 1:6, the Rev. Carl L. Wilson says, in part: "It takes a great deal of thought and planning to erect a building of any kind. First of all the original idea must exist in somebody's mind, then in blueprint form, and then carried out in actuality. At last it stands complete for its purpose.

"How like life is this entire process! There is a 'divinity that shapes our ends.' God has a specific task in mind for each person. He is the Master Designer and Architect. While we do not always live up to the specifications as designed in His blueprint, nevertheless our lives take a certain course. God has given each one certain personalities and individualities, so that through our individual lives we may contribute toward the broader and higher ends of mankind.

"In other words, God says to each person: 'You are You.' You are an individual; now go ahead, stir up the gift within your life in the best way you know how. And because you are you, it is your responsibility to find your place in life and to give expression in holy living. This challenge comes to every high school graduate."

Church school classes will study a Bible lesson, "Principles of Christian Stewardship."

Children under twelve years will meet in the service center for church school lesson study and Christian education instructions at 9:30 a. m.

Junior church worship will be held at 10:30 a. m., when "Dee Dee Chou," a full-color missionary film, will be shown.

Sermon Series Begins Sunday For Methodists

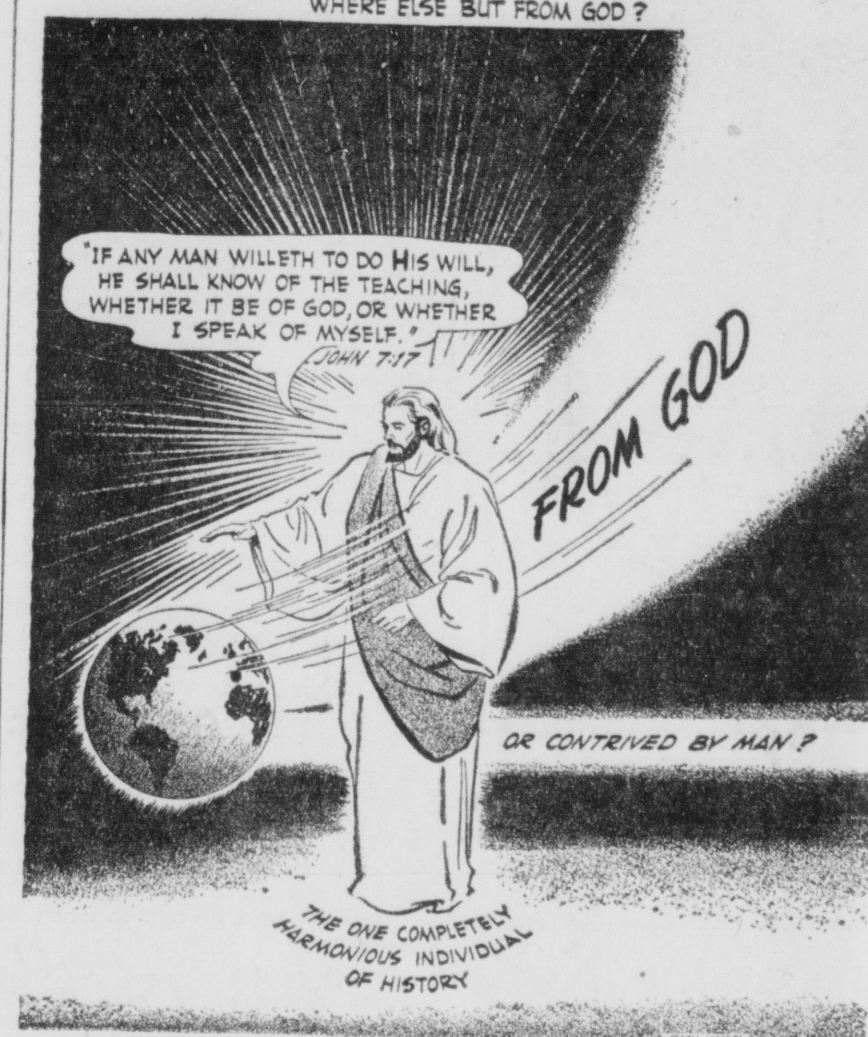

"The Story of Abraham" will be the first in a series of sermons the Rev. Robert Weaver will preach this Summer in First Methodist church on "Heroes of the Old Testament."

The sermon will give the background of Abraham and his relationship to the Hebrew people. An aim of the sermon series will be to acquaint members of the congregation with the place and position of this great man the Jewish people called "Father Abraham."

Robert Wagner, boy soprano of Chillicothe, will sing Malotte's arrangement of the Lord's Prayer during the morning worship service. Wagner is widely-known in Chillicothe music circles, and will be singing with the Columbus Boy-choir this Summer at Chautauqua, New York.

A trio composed of Mrs. Larry Graham, Mrs. Harold Defenbaugh and Miss Beverly Reid will sing an anthem "How Lovely Are Thy Dwellings." Mrs. Leist has chosen "Priest's March," "Offertory" and "Postlude in G." for her organ selections.

Senior High Methodist Youth Fellowship will meet at 6 p. m. Sunday in the home of Robert Wolford, Circleville Route 3. Election of officers and the making of home-made ice cream will be features of the program.

Worship Rites Are Readied In Christ Church

Sermon topic planned for worship Sunday in church of Christ, meeting at 159 E. Main St., will be, "They Have Taken Away My Lord." This theme is suggested by the statement made by Mary Magdalene when she came to the open sepulchre where Jesus had been laid after his crucifixion and found him not there (John 20).

"Christ, in many instances, has been removed from his rightful place in the world today," suggests Evangelist Charles Cochran.

"We see him removed from being head of the church, and earthly heads substituted in his stead, when inspiration says, 'And hath put all things under his feet, and gave him to be the head over all things to the church, which is his body, the fulness of him that filleth all in all' (Eph. 1:22-23).

"We see other foundations being laid upon which to build, when Paul said, 'For other foundation can no man lay than that is laid, which is Jesus Christ' (I Cor. 3:11).

"Other names are being used through which to offer praise unto God when Paul said, 'And whatsoever ye do in word or deed, do all in the name of the Lord Jesus, giving thanks to God and the Father by him' (Col. 3:17).

"Other authorities are being accepted as standards in religion other than Christ, notwithstanding the fact that he said, 'All authority is given unto me in heaven and in earth' (Matt. 28:18).

"Some have taken away Christ from their worship and in his stead have substituted the worship of riches, pleasure, worldly glory and idol gods.

"In order to be pleasing to God Christ must be exalted to his rightful place in our hearts, in our lives and in our practices."

Principles of Christian Stewardship

The Christians in Jerusalem were in need and the churches in Corinth and Macedonia were asked to contribute to help them. Paul writes that he is sending Titus and two companions to Corinth to collect the bounty.

In the matter of giving, Paul writes: "He which soweth sparingly, shall reap also sparingly; and he which soweth bountifully shall reap bountifully. So let him give not grudgingly or of necessity, for God loveth a cheerful giver."

The generous givers will be "enriched in everything to all bountifulness, for the administration of this service not only supplieth the want of the saints, but it is abundant also by thanksgiving unto God," writes Paul.

The Jerusalem Christians would not only be grateful for the generous contributions for their comfort, but would glorify and give thanks to God for their brethren in Christ, and would pray for them.

EVEREST CONQUERED

A PARTY OF BRITISH mountain climbers conquered Mt. Everest after 10 expeditions had failed. In failing they had, it is true, accumulated information and experience to help future climbers. Equipment to enable men to live and move in the thin air more than five miles up was steadily improved.

But the final challenge of the great mountain, the cold and the winds, the sudden storms and avalanches, could not be met in advance by skill and ingenuity. The last assault on the peak still called for the last ounce of courage and good fortune.

Two men have stood where no man stood before. The aspiration upward is a fundamental human drive that is reflected not only in the imagery of poetry but in the turns of ordinary language. But to those who climb mountains the adventure is more than an exercise in metaphor. In his novel, "The White Tower," James Ullman describes some of the complex motives that may drive men to test themselves against wind and precipice.

And the mountain, too, he suggests, is more than a high place. "Innocent of struggle or aspiration, of conquest or defeat, it rose in austere and gentle certitude to its appointed place in the sky—and stopped. It was a fact. It existed."

Everest has been conquered. But the larger symbolic truth is that it remains and will forever remain unconquerable. Perhaps other men will reach the summit. Certainly others will try, for the mountain will always seem the ultimate entity for which man forever reaches and which he never grasps.

AMAZING AUTO INDUSTRY

WITH PRODUCTION SO FAR this year 40 per cent ahead of figures for the similar period last year, America's amazing automobile industry is preparing to set a still higher output record during the last half of the year.

Again those who predicted the "saturation" point in automobile sales was being reached are face to face with the task of determining how they could have been so wrong. So confident are automobile company executives of the outlook for the immediate future, news from Detroit is that only minor changes will be made in 1954 models, to avoid interference with production while engaged in model changeover.

The automobile industry is providing a real challenge to road builders, and it may yet prove to be the case that automobile output will eventually be throttled by lack of roads to accommodate more cars.

WASHINGTON, June 6—"Does Senator Taft's criticism of the United Nations, especially his implied suggestion that the United States go it alone in Korea, reflect the sentiment of a majority in Congress?" inquires F. C. of Los Angeles, Calif.

MISINTERPRETED — Answer: I am amazed at the unjustifiably excited reaction to Senator Taft's speech. Like Clement Attlee's supposed attack on the United States, it was misunderstood, and misinterpreted here and abroad.

President Eisenhower had to answer it only for that reason, namely, to calm foreign fears that we might pull out of UN. With only a few exceptions, for-

JUSTIFICATION—Taft has his

George E. Sokolsky's

These Days

Senator Robert A. Taft has supported President Eisenhower, in both his domestic and foreign policies, with a blind fidelity wholly unexpected in a man of his stature and independence. Other Republicans, particularly those who had supported Taft for the Presidency, were surprised and often displeased over this attitude; yet Taft's position is understandable in the nature of his personality.

Eisenhower won the nomination; therefore Taft labored for Eisenhower valiantly as though he were the candidate himself. Strictly a believer in the party system, his attitude was that the winner takes all.

Since January 3, when Congress opened, he has continued to support Eisenhower without equivocation on the ground that Eisenhower is entitled to a period of acclimatization and reorganization.

However, when it is evident that there is danger of a peace with Soviet Russia over Korea on the low basis of appeasement, without honor or dignity; when Taft believed that both South Korea, which has fought valiantly and suffered great losses, and Formosa, which has held on to an anti-Communist outpost in Asia, are likely to be betrayed; he had to speak out. Otherwise, he would be a man without integrity.

The speech which his son read for him in Cincinnati, because the Senator was ill, does not end his support of General Eisenhower nor does it end his efforts to achieve and maintain unity within the Republican Party. Yet, this must be said because it is true: the Republican Party, particularly in the Senate, tends toward an individualism which makes party management difficult.

One reason for this is that Senators and party leaders, whether supporters of Ike or otherwise before the convention, find that he is separated from them by too many echelons and they cannot become accustomed to some of the personalities that surround the President, too many of whom serve as a palace guard who keep him from those upon whose support he must count.

Republicans who need to have business with the President cannot get accustomed to the Chief of Staff arrangement by which Sherman Adams acts as President ex-officio. Nor do they quite grasp the relationship between themselves and the various committees and experts upon whom the President tends to depend even in legislative matters.

General Walter Bedell Smith, who acts as Secretary of Foreign Affairs most of the time, because John Foster Dulles travels so much, is more favorably known than most of the White House entourage.

Republican Senators are neither accustomed to his crisp ways, undoubtedly normal to the Army, nor do they altogether understand why there seem to be so many foreign ministers, as it were, namely John Foster Dulles, General Smith, Allen Dulles in CIA, Harold Stassen, C. D. Jackson in the President's office.

Gen. Nathan Twining says the United States has enough atomic bombs to blow Russia off the map. But can it be done some morning before breakfast?

enign reporters at Washington, including the British and French, do a remarkably poor job of describing and analyzing the American scene for their readers and governments.

WHAT TAFT SAID—Taft did not say that the U. S. should "go it alone in Korea." He said that we should "go it alone in the Korean truce negotiations," referring to the British desire to negotiate peace at almost any cost, which would cause American prestige and influence in Asia and Africa to disappear.

The senator said what everybody admits, namely, that the UN is a futile body in preventing or conducting wars. Had not Russia been sulking and its delegation absent, the Moscow veto would have kept the UN from voting for resistance to the Communist invasion of South Korea. And now we are getting only token military aid from member nations there, perhaps 50,000 in a force of one million men on or behind the fighting lines.

MAJORITY AGREE—I think that a majority of Senate-House membership agree with Taft's major thesis. Like him, they still have hope that UN will amount to a world force for peace, although Russian recalcitrancy presents a full and final barrier to that objective.

Taft may be subject to criticism because of the untimeliness of his remarks, which may frustrate efforts toward a Korean armistice. But the senator doesn't

Abnormal Posture of the Neck May Contribute to Rheumatism

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

MANY people bring aches and pains on themselves by unconscious misuse of their own bodies. Unnatural stresses and strains, continued for long periods, are found to be at the bottom of much of the rheumatism these people complain of when they get over the age of forty.

The most common site for rheumatism at this age is the vertebrae of the neck. These people complain of aching and soreness of the neck, or painful "cricks" in the neck. It is not uncommon for this type of rheumatism to cause severe headaches and shoulder pain.

Excess Stress

One cause of this disturbance is fatigue from excess stress on the bony supports of the neck. We could cause the same sort of trouble by holding an arm or leg too long in one position.

In the case of the neck, the unnatural posture is unsuspected, even though it is causing pain. In many, it is a forward thrust of the head, common in occupations such as typing, sewing, working over a low table and driving a car. Many people who read in bed or sleep on high pillows complain of similar symptoms.

Seen in TV Fans

Recently, a number of these symptoms have been seen in television fans whose TV sets are not placed at the proper height, distance or position.

Along with the faulty posture,

a loss of minerals from the bones as age increases may contribute to rheumatism.

The treatment for rheumatism and unnatural stress is simple in principle but often quite difficult to carry out, because it is not easy to change one's habits. A careful survey must be made to determine the abnormal posture. Sometimes, a small soft pillow may be used in the proper position under the neck. Heat and massage are also sometimes of help.

Hormone Treatment

The loss of minerals in the bones can also be remedied. Sometimes it is traced to a lack of enough female hormone in women going through the change of life. Treatment with hormones is usually corrective in these cases. If they are treated early enough, curvature of the spine may be prevented.

Above all, a person should correct his faulty and dangerous habits of posture. He must be allowed to rest when tired and to take frequent breaks in his work to relieve the stress on his neck.

CHAPTER NINETEEN

CARLOTTA was wearing a black slacks suit which set off her slim hips to perfection and her dark heavy hair was smoothly coiled as usual. When he saw her, Larry tried to get the flask back into his pocket, but he was not quick enough.

"Drinking again?" she asked coldly.

"I needed it," Larry defended himself. "You don't know what happened to the captain."

"I know all about it," Carlotta silenced him, but she did not disclose the source of her information. Instead, she returned to the attack. "I should think you would want to let that stuff alone. Now of all times."

"Why now?"

"Because you might want to be able to keep your mouth shut."

"I'll keep my mouth shut all right. And so will he. I paid him to."

If I didn't know what Larry was talking about, it was evident that Carlotta did, for she looked at him aghast.

"Do you mean to tell me that you gave him what he wanted?"

"What else could I do?"

"You fool. You dope. You've played right into his hands."

"But he said he saw it when he unpacked."

"Will you shut up!" Carlotta fairly screamed at him. "You'll ruin all of us. Oh, why couldn't I have married a man!"

"Shut up yourself. You were glad to get me after old Tremaine shot himself. There weren't many other takers then. I saved you, and you know it."

"You saved me!" Carlotta shrieked. "Why you poor little rich boy, I was taking care of myself when you were still running to your nanny to get your pants buttoned. You wouldn't have a penny today if I hadn't showed you how to handle it. Do you suppose it was the end of me because one old fool couldn't stand the gas? No, body was going to get me down, and nobody ever will. But I'm not sure that I can save you, now."

"I was trying to protect you," Larry said.

There was a long and terrifying silence, and I have heard rattlesnakes sound more friendly than Carlotta when she spoke again.

"What are you hinting at?"

"Larry was both drunk and confused, but not beyond realizing that he had put a foot wrong. He took refuge in a sulky defiance."

"If people get to know I had a gun, you know what they'll think. You knew I had it, didn't you?" he asked.

For a while there was no human sound to compete with the shrieking of the storm, then Carlotta's hot whisper came again.

"You really do want to get rid of me, don't you?"

"Don't look at me like that, Carlotta. I haven't done a thing," Larry was definitely scared.

"I was a fool not to see it before. It's Gay, of course. You want to marry Gay?"

"Not Gay. Not Gay," said Larry urgently.

"Yes, Gay."

She had been standing over him as she talked, and now she took a threatening step forward. Larry scrambled out of his chair. "Keep away from me, Carlotta. What are you trying to do?"

"You can't hang a murder rap on me," Carlotta said. "I don't have to wait for Todd to talk about the gun. I'll turn you in myself."

"For what? Turn me in for what?"

"For shooting Opyke."

"But I didn't..."

"Who will believe that?"

"You did."

In the deadly pause which followed I felt my flesh creep as if I were the one who was being threatened.

"You'll pay for that," Carlotta said at last. "I'll tell the whole story. There won't be a rag left of either one of you when I get through. Frame me, would you?"

"You can't prove a thing, Carlotta. You can talk as much as you like," Larry was backing away from her now, and he sounded unconvincing and uncertain.

"Don't look at me that way, you know I never thought of framing you! You're making the whole thing up... Carlotta!"

She was on all fours with her hands like claws, but just then a great wave struck the ship broadside with a crash like an explosion.

Tons of green water fell upon the Spiritus, buried her, rolled over her. The gray patch of daylight which had been beginning to show at the window, vanished under solid water. It was like looking up from the bottom of the sea. The shock flung Larry and Carlotta together into one corner of the room. It flung me from the sofa to the floor.

Far too slowly the angle lessened, and the curtain swung back. The Spiritus floundered like a drowning animal. The sea-green water which had swept past the window was succeeded by white spray, and then by the beautiful gray daylight. We were still afloat.

Larry sat up and rubbed his hands across his bloodshot eyes. It was all too much for his fuddled mind to cope with. He gave an inarticulate cry, scrambled up, and escaped from the room. Carlotta and I went on staring at each other. Slowly Carlotta rose, lurched to a chair, sat down. Not to be left at a disadvantage, I did the same. Carlotta's topaz eyes were as expressionless as a cat's—baleful, cold, unnering.

We sat there saying nothing, while the Spiritus thrashed like a wounded shark.

"I tried to go downstairs," I said at last, and even to myself it sounded childish.

"You seem to overhear a lot on this ship," Carlotta said. "It's a pity."

Her tone was impersonal, remote, devoid of regret. It implied that whatever had been heard or not heard was of no consequence, needed no comment, and no explanation. Her eyes wandered away from me, searching the floor, back and forth, up and down, until they came to rest on an object in the corner. She rose and began to make her way toward it, swaying and balancing with the ship, but so concentrated that she seemed unaware of it.

I followed her eyes, and saw a knife—a sportsman's model for gutting fish—with a polished wooden handle and a curved blade, the sort of knife an enthusiast might bring if he hoped for deep-sea fishing.

As Carlotta pulled herself toward the corner where the knife had rolled, I started for the door. Neither of us could move quickly. It was like one of those nightmares in which time has slowed down. The smaller chairs were being flung from one side of the room to the other. They attacked us, impeded us. Crossing the salon was an obstacle race in slow motion—an obstacle race with death.

I moved sideways because I was afraid to take my eyes off Carlotta, who had managed to grab the knife and who was brandishing it in her hand. I screamed and beat against the door.

Suddenly it opened behind me, and I fell backward into the passage.

"Hello there!" exclaimed a familiar voice.

"Robert! Oh, Robert! Robert!" I couldn't do more at first than babble his name, while tears of relief ran down my face. Robert was picking me up. Robert was setting me on my feet, making comforting noises. He wore a dark zipper suit which he had left over from air-raid days, and even in my agitation I noticed that it was as wet as if he had been swimming in it. The door had banged shut as the ship lurched. I pointed to it.

"In there. In there. She was going to kill me."

"What's this?" Robert asked. "Steady on, darling."

The door had not latched, and now it fearfully swung wide again and showed us Carlotta, lying back on one of the sofas, smoking a cigaret. Robert helped me back into the room, and Carlotta sat up, looking surprised. The hand which held her cigaret did not shake.

"She was going to kill me," I said. "I overheard something, and she was going to kill me."

Carlotta was all astonishment. "Why Ginger, dear!" She addressed herself to Robert at her creamiest. "The storm has made her hysterical. It is enough to drive us all out of our minds. Do you suppose the ship can live through it?"

I said, "She had a knife."

Carlotta was gently puzzled. "What knife?"

"There was no knife to be seen."

"I've got to talk to you, Robert," I said. I had control of myself by this time.

"I haven't time, Virginia," Robert said. "I've got to get up to the bridge and give them a warning."

"Let me go with you."

He shook his head. "The wind would blow you off the deck. You must stay inside, whatever happens."

"Yes, dear," Carlotta cooed. "Stay here with me and don't get to imagining things. I'll look after you." She gave Robert an understanding glance and raised her eyebrows.

Ants In Gardens Dry Out Soil

Ants in gardens and flower beds dry out soil. This injures root systems unless the insects are discouraged by cultivation or insecticides, a specialist at Ohio State University said today.

T. H. Parks, extension entomologist, advised using psychology to drive ants out of gardens. If their nests are stirred with hoe or rake every time one is discovered, ants will take the hint and leave.

If cultivation is not possible, homemakers may use 5 per cent chlordane powder on the nests and ground where ants run but not directly on flowers.

These methods also apply to vegetable and flower gardens not close to the home, Parks said.

ROTHMAN'S

A Picture....

That Makes You Think

Most people would say this is a picture of a newspaperboy throwing a paper, and that would be all. Now if you were this boy's father you would probably say, "Look, here's Jack's picture in the paper. Isn't that something to be proud of?"

No—it isn't the fact that the picture is something to be proud of. It's what Jack is doing! He's aiming a newspaper at the threshold of experience. He's walking down the street of self-enterprise. He's carrying in his sack, separate bundles of responsibility.

He's wearing a smile of self satisfaction in the knowledge that he's earning his OWN money.

Yes, Dad, that's just part of it. If you want your boy to meet people and know people so necessary for later life, then look at the picture again. Don't you agree it makes you think?!

Tribe-Yankee Series Vital To Cleveland

CLEVELAND (AP) — It looks as though Cleveland's only hope of gaining on the New York Yankees before July 4 is to win three of the four games the world champs play here next week end.

While the Indians were whipping Philadelphia 3-2 here in 10 innings Friday night for the 10th victory of their last 14 games, the Yanks blanked St. Louis 5-0 for their eighth straight triumph. Cleveland is 5 1/2 games off the pace.

A pinch fly by Hank Majeski with the bases full and none out drove in the winning run Friday night. Larry Doby walked and Al Rosen singled off Carl Scheib to start the winning rally. Pinch hitter Harry Simpson drew an intentional walk to load the bases, and southpaw Morris Martin replaced Scheib and pitched to Majeski. It was Scheib's last game.

Bob Chakales, making his first start of the season, blanked the A's on seven hits for six and one-third innings. When he tired and gave way to Bob Hooper, the Tribe had a 2-0 lead.

The two runs resulted from Chakales' single and Doby's double in the third inning and a trio of sharp singles in the fifth by Bob Avila, Rosen and Wally Westlake.

The Athletics tied the game in the ninth when Hooper gave two walks and a sacrifice. Lou Brissie came in for one pitch which Eddie Robinson cracked to right to score two runs.

Steve Gromek, the Tribe's third pitcher and the winner, came in and fanned Gus Zernial and Dave Philley to end the rally.

Willie Pep Gains TKO In Match

NEW YORK (AP)—Willie Pep, a shadow of the old master, still is much too good for the likes of club fighter Pat Marcune.

For five rounds, Willy Willie moved like the Pep of old last night in Madison Square Garden. Tiring down during the stretch as blood streamed from cuts around his left eye, the 30-year-old Pep bargained Marcune with a desperation attack for a technical knock-out in 14 seconds of the 10th round.

Old '48 Boston Braves Staff Still Effective

Spahn And Sain Split Now, But Continue To Fire Deadly Guns

By The Associated Press

Back in 1948 the Boston Braves won the National League pennant with a pitching staff of "Spahn, Sain and two days rain." Five years later that staff would still bring a fortune on the open market.

The S-S men are split up now, Johnny Sain working for the New York Yankees and Warren Spahn still with the Braves but calling Milwaukee instead of Boston home.

Although on the shady side of 30, both are having great years. So are their ball clubs. If things keep up they might find themselves pitching against each other in a world series game.

Sain, the busiest pitcher on the Yankee staff, picked up his sixth victory and his first shutout last night against the St. Louis Browns, 5-0. He's started nine times, worked seven complete games, lost two and has an earned run average of 2.65.

Spahn, apparently as good as new after an early season injury, also won his sixth game last night, an 11 inning struggle over the Philadelphia Phillies in which he gave up only five hits. He's been beaten once in seven starts and has worked five complete games with an earned run average of 2.10.

Sain's victory extended the Yankees' winning string to eight their longest in two years. Spahn's success kept the Braves half a game ahead of the Brooklyn Dodgers, who outlasted the St. Louis Cardinals, 5-4.

The revamped Chicago Cubs continued to lose, dropping an 11-1 verdict to the New York Giants and Cincinnati defeated Pittsburgh, 7-4, with Gus Bell hitting a pair of homers.

Cleveland hung 5 1/2 games back of the Yankees with a 10-inning 3-2 squeaker over Philadelphia while Washington took third place away from the Chicago White Sox with an 8-4 victory featuring a grand slam home run by Wayne Terwilliger.

Rain in the third inning washed out Boston's game at Detroit with the Tigers leading, 1-0. All of the games were played at night.

At Philadelphia, the Braves twice came from behind to tie and then scored the winning run in the 11th on a walk, a sacrifice and a single by catcher Del Crandall, to make the final tally 3-2.

Brooklyn took advantage of some loose St. Louis fielding to score four runs in the third inning. Third baseman Ray Jablonski threw too late on Roy Campanella's slow roller, then fumbled Gil Hodges' hot bouncer. Carl Furillo scored Campanella with a clean single and came home behind Hodges when Enos Slaughter misplayed Bobby Morgan's hit into a triple. Morgan scored after a fly ball.

Ruben Gomez went the distance against the Cubs for New York and struck out 11 men in gaining his first major league victory.

There were more home runs in the Pittsburgh-Cincinnati contest than in the other three National League games put together. In addition to the two by Bell, Roy McMillan hit one for Cincinnati and Frank Thomas for Pittsburgh.

The Browns, who had pushed the Yankees into extra innings in their two previous meetings this season, didn't offer much opposition. They aided the New York cause with five errors. Mickey Mantle hit his eighth home run with a man on base.

Cleveland got a run home in the 10th against Philadelphia when Hank Majeski lofted a long outfield fly with the bases loaded and none out. The A's had tied the contest with a pair of runs in the ninth.

The White Sox lost their fifth in a row as Washington built a 7-0 lead in the first four innings. Homers by Tom Wright in the fifth and Sam Mele in the seventh helped narrow the gap but both came with the bases empty.

The Yale-Harvard Regatta is America's oldest intercollegiate sports rivalry, as well as the nation's longest boat race—four miles. The schools observed 100 years of rowing last Summer.

Hank Bauer, outfielder for the New York Yankees, was a pitcher for Oshkosh in the Wisconsin State League in 1941.

Herm Keeps Indian Sign On Pirates

PITTSBURGH (AP)—Right-hander Herm Wehmeier, who hasn't been able to win against anybody else for Cincinnati this season, still has the Indian sign on the Pittsburgh Pirates.

Wehmeier had figured in only two decisions up to Friday night's 7-4 triumph over the Bucs and had lost both of them. But his first victory also marked the 10th straight time he has turned back Pittsburgh in three years.

Centerfielder Gus Bell was the Redleg batting star with two home runs and a two-base hit in five times at bat.

The Buccos jumped Hermie for two runs in the initial inning on

Fellow Ohioan Tells Greatest Sports Thrill

By MIKE PEPPE
Ohio State U. Swimming Coach
COLUMBUS, O. (AP)—Swimming has provided me many, many thrilling moments.

Spine-tingling diving contests involving Ohio State University competitors for national and Olympic honors, and spectacular record-breaking feats in highest flight swimming competition by numerous Buckeye champions, make it rather difficult to select the one big thrill.

Yet, a certain diving performance in March of 1946 remains most unforgettable. In the fall of 1941 a great young diving prospect from Chicago enrolled at Ohio State. The following spring, while still a freshman, he captured his first major title—the senior NAAU indoor three-meter dive at New Haven, Conn.

In the contest he defeated a group of seasoned divers, including intercollegiate champion Frank Dempsey and Charley Batterman of Ohio State, and Jimmy Cooke of Yale.

Here was a comer who had everything—appearance, poise, keen acrobatic sense and timing, and a fine competitive spirit. It looked like a remarkable future for the lad, due to start his varsity career in 1942.

But meanwhile, a certain fracas—World War II—intervened. Our college boys were pouring into service. This youngster promptly enlisted in the Army Air Force.

In 1944, after 112 missions as a fighter pilot, he was shot down by the Germans. Ultimate result—a badly shattered left leg and prisoner of war.

When the U. S. A. surgeons finally got to him, metal splints were placed in the upper leg and he was advised to forget diving.

The recovery process was long

Knight Star Shines In Westbury Win

WESTBURY, N. Y. (AP)—Knight Star, one of the top two-year-old pacers of 1952, made his debut as three-year-old Friday night and turned in a sensational victory at Roosevelt Raceway.

Owned by P. G. and Jere Gray of East Providence, R. I., he was clocked in 2:03.3, best time of the year for a three-year-old pacer. Vernon Elkington set a sizzling pace, going the half-mile in 1:00.4, best for any sidewheeler of any age this year. Frank Safford brought Knight Star alongside the pace-setter at the top of the stretch and went on to win by a length. Coastline was third.

and tedious. First crutches, then a cane, and so on. Back in school in the fall of 1945, he limped about the campus until December, then decided to take a whirl at diving again.

The weakened left take-off leg couldn't take the strain, so he changed to the right. This was virtually an impossible adjustment, like a southpaw pitcher learning to throw right-handed.

But the medics had not calculated on this boy's spirit and determination. Three months of grueling practice enabled him to gradually regain his leg strength, despite abortive competition in five or six dual meets in January and February.

Then, on March 9, 1946, Miller Anderson rendered me my greatest thrill!

In one of the finest comebacks in the history of sport, he annexed his first Western Conference diving title. It was no fluke. The competition was keen and spirited, but Anderson's performance was flawless.

Later that season, Miller gathered additional titles in NCAA and NAAU championships. He went on to gain many more conference and national titles, and successfully represented the U. S. A. in the 1948 and 1952 Olympic games.

That boy—Miller Anderson—was great!

Joe Hiestand Wins Seventh State Crown

MIDDLETOWN (AP)—Joe Hiestand, Hillsboro farmer and master shotgun artist, Friday walked off with his seventh singles championship. He successfully defended his title in the Ohio Trapshoot Tournament.

He had to break 30 straight targets in a shootoff this time, however, as he wound up in a tie with George Wagner, Dayton. Wagner missed a target and so was relegated to runner-up position.

Both Wagner and Hiestand shattered 198 of 200 targets. Ned Lilly, Stanton, Mich., and C. V. Bracher, Cleveland, also broke 198, but both were ineligible for the shootoff, Lilly being a non-Ohioan and Bracher a pro.

The women's crown went to Mae Ramey, Miamisburg, with 182 of 200, topping Mrs. H. L. McKinley, Harrisburg, with 178.

Other individual winners were: Dave Dickas, Sidney, 93 of 100 for the junior championship; Mr. and Mrs. H. L. McKinley, Harrisburg, 46 of 50 in a shootoff for the husband and wife award, to 44 of 50 for Mr. and Mrs. Frank Barger, Dayton, who tied them in regular firing with 367 of 400; and Dr. J. L. Michaels, Wilmington, unopposed for the senior championship, with only shooters 70 years old or more eligible.

The Southwestern Ohio team of Hiestand, Wagner, Leslie Trees of Plain City, Elmer Lucas of Peebles and Roy Davidson of Middletown won the zone team shoot title with 483 of 500 targets. They will represent Ohio in the state team shoot at the Grand American in Vandalia.

Toledo Waite Seeks Cage Pilot

TOLEDO (AP)—Toledo Waite High School is searching for a basketball coach to go with its new field house, rated one of the finest scholastic athletic structures in the country.

Bill Fetters gave up the coaching job to go to Scott High in an administrative position, and the berth at Waite is open. E. L. Bowser, former state education director and now superintendent of Toledo schools, is accepting applications from top-flight coaches.

Big Bill Tilden Is Dead At Age 60

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Big Bill Tilden, who popularized the game of tennis in America and was generally considered the sport's all-time master, is dead at 60, apparently of a heart attack.

The rangy ruler of the courts during the decade of the 1920s was found dead in his modest apartment Friday evening.

In a nationwide poll conducted three years ago, Big Bill—the man with dynamite in his racket—was chosen No. 1 tennis player of the half century.

Ike Presides As Democrats Defeat GOP

WASHINGTON (AP)—Dwight D. Eisenhower, who led the Republicans to victory last November, presided over a GOP defeat here Friday night.

With the Chief Executive looking on, after throwing out the first ball, Republican members of Congress lost to the Democrats 3-2 in an uproarious five inning benefit baseball game in Griffith Stadium.

GOP pitcher Glenn Davis of Wisconsin had the Democrats well in hand, 2-0, until the fatal fifth. The Democrats pushed across two runs and then, with the score tied, Davis walked Rep. Mendel Rivers of South Carolina to fill the bases. He hit the next batter, Rep. Hugh Adonizio of New Jersey, on the hand to force in the winning run.

Davis allowed only three hits. Rep. Don Wheeler of Georgia, pitching for the Democrats, was nicked for four. Charitably, nobody kept track of the errors.

A crowd of 4,609 saw the game, an annual event played for a summer camp fund for underprivileged children.

Eisenhower, hatless and wearing a dark summer suit, seemed to have a fine time.

His opening pitch dropped into a scrambling mass of uniformed congressmen. Rep. Landrum (D-Ga.) came up with the ball and triumphantly presented it for the presidential autograph.

Forfeiture Denied In Race Squabble

COLUMBUS (AP)—George M. Trautman today set aside the forfeiture of a May 20 Cotton States League game between Hot Springs, Ark., and Jackson, Miss., and ordered the contest played.

Trautman, president of the National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues, said the "conclusion is inescapable that the game of May 20 was forfeited because Hot Springs proposed to play James Tugerson, a Negro player."

Disc Jockeys Replace Buglers In Modern U. S. Army

New Customs Bring Changes In Post Calls

Only About 12 Calls Now Heard Daily In Camps

Army buglers are going the way of the old horse cavalry—but many of their melodies linger on.

Just as there is little room in a modern, mechanized army for the colorful cavalry of days gone by, so is there also little use for the horn-blower whom every soldier groused about “murdering” each day at sun-up.

Soldier “disc jockeys” have replaced Old Army buglers at virtually all Army posts.

Famous bugle calls—ranging from rousing “Reveille” to soft and nostalgic “Taps”—have been cut in wax, and the records are played through amplifiers at post headquarters.

ARMY CUSTOMS have changed the significance of some of the old tunes.

The bugle call, “Tattoo,” which formerly was the last call of the military day, was established during the Thirty Years War—1618 to 1648—to end drinking bouts. Then known as “Tap To,” it was the signal that taps in all opened beer barrels were to be closed immediately.

Later called “Tattoo,” this signal was sounded by three taps on a drum. It now is the next to the last call of the military day and is used as a signal that noise must stop and all lights in the barracks must be turned out within 15 minutes.

The last call at night is “Taps,” which also is used as an honorary salute at military funerals.

After the horse departed from Army formations, many stirring bugle calls also disappeared. Today only 25 or 30 calls—out of the full repertoire of 41—still are played. Many are for special occasions for procedures and few installations use them regularly. Normally, only ten or 12 bugle calls are heard every day on most Army posts.

Among old favorites no longer heard on the Army’s “hit parade” of bugle calls are the boat call, the signal that a boat is going to dock or depart from an Army installation; water call, formerly played when it was time to water horses; and overcoats bugle call, to notify troops that the formation soon to follow would be in overcoats.

AS SUBSTITUTE for the boat call, Army bands sometimes play for boat dockings and departures.

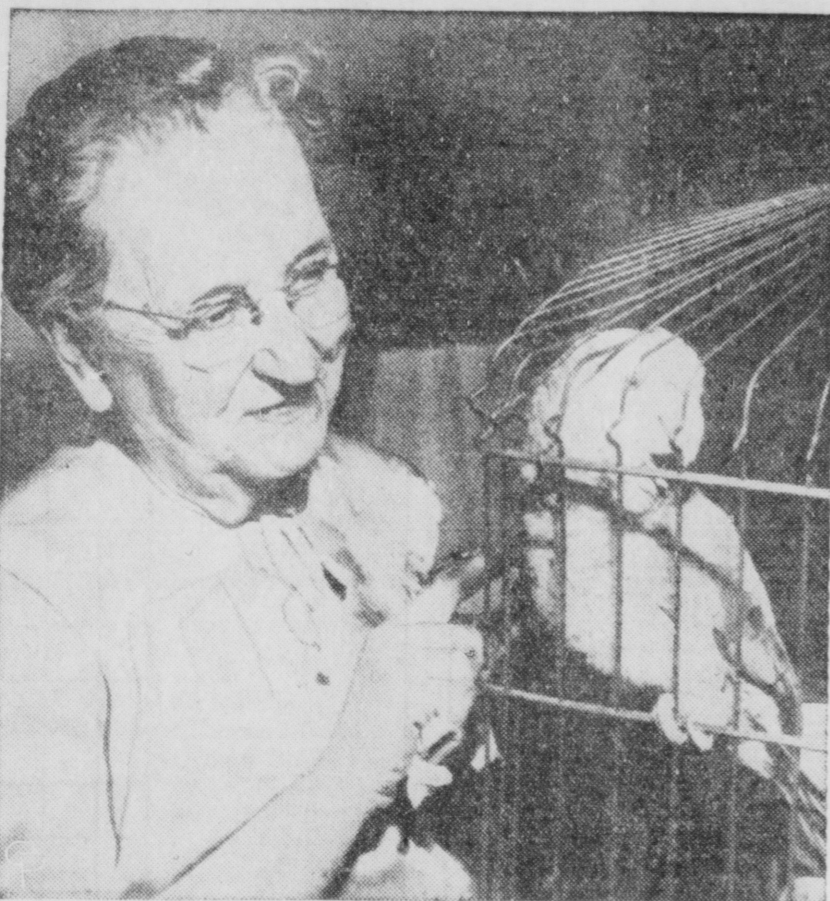

Stable call—which in the days of the horse cavalry warned troops on stable duty to feed and curry their horses—still is used on some posts, but is known as motor call. It signals Army drivers to bring in their trucks for cleaning and servicing.

Most bugle calls now used in the U. S. Army have been derived from the French and the British. But some historians believe an American officer—Major General Daniel Butterfield—composed “Taps” during the War Between the States. One historian, however, gives credit for the composition to General Truman Seymour, U. S. Army.

“Retreat,” played at sunset when the flag is lowered, is similar to the French “Marches de Retraite.” According to tradition, its origin dates back to the time of the Crusades.

The firing of a gun at sunset on Army posts is believed to have grown out of an ancient custom of making a big noise in camps as the sun went down. This was believed to frighten away evil spirits.

The idea of inventing doggerel verses to sing with bugle calls probably began in Germany and

MRS. VERA BARNES, 73, shown with Jerry in her Cambridge, Mass., home, says she will take good care of the parrot but admits she isn't too pleased with the will of her brother, the late Luther A. Sawyer, 82, bacteriologist of Arlington, Mass. He bequeathed $20,000 in cash to the parrot.

Atomic Energy Has Saved More Lives Than Destroyed

NEW YORK (AP)—Atomic energy already has saved many times more lives than the 80,000 lost by atomic bombs exploded over Japan, Dr. John Z. Bowers said today.

Bowers, dean and professor of radiobiology, University of Utah College of Medicine, told the American Medical Association (AMA) that the life-saving has come through the use of radioactive atoms in medicines.

In a speech prepared for the closing session of the AMA convention, Bowers gave some examples of how atomic energy has quietly been saving lives:

Radioactive atoms, which can be traced wherever they go, are in effect making the human body transparent. Doctors can learn where drugs go, how drugs do their good work. They can learn how glands work, even what part of living cells do the work which saves or preserves health.

Mysteries of the adrenal glands are being solved with the aid of radioactive atoms. This has aided in treatments of rheumatoid arthritis, and rheumatic fever, the great heart-killer among children.

Radioactive iodine is helping in treating diseases, including cancer, of the thyroid gland, Bowers continued. And there are hopes that cancers elsewhere in the body can be treated by finding chemicals which will go just to those cancers. Those chemicals could be made radioactive, to go to the cancers and then give off atomic rays which would kill the cancer cells.

New research, Bowers said, promises better methods of protecting humans against radiation from A-bombs.

It's ridiculous, apparently, to warn everyone to quit doing vigspread to England and the United States.

SOME OF the best known verses used in the U. S. Army are these:

REVEILLE
I can't get 'em up, I can't get 'em up,
I can't get 'em up in the morning,
I can't get 'em up, I can't get 'em up,
I can't get 'em up at all.
Corporals worse than the privates;
Sergeants worse than the corporals;
Lieutenants worse than the sergeants;
And the captains the worst of all.

CHORUS
I can't get 'em up, I can't get 'em up,
I can't get 'em up in the morning;
I can't get 'em up, I can't get 'em up,
I can't get 'em up at all.

MESS CALL
Soupy, soupy, soup,
Without a single bean;
Porky, porky, pork,
Without a streak of lean;
Coffee, coffee, coffee,
Without any cream!
(Or, the weakest ever seen!)

SICK CALL
Come and get your quinine, come and get your pills,
Oh! come and get your quinine, come and get your pills.

What Effect Will Truce Have On U.S.?

Most Businessmen Believe Peace Due To Boost Economy

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—A truce in Korea—so devoutly desired by everyone in America—seems closer today, despite all the false starts in the past.

What will it do to business? To the cost of living? To taxes? To employment? To the stock market?

Many industrial leaders have been pointing out that—for the long pull—the American economy would gain by real peace. War and the defense effort have put a heavy burden of debt, high taxes and dollar-cheapening inflation upon the American people and their economy.

For the short haul, however, the truce is likely to have a psychological impact on consumers, on business executives and on investors.

The peace talk comes when the United States is at the top of one of its greatest booms. Many businessmen think the peak has already been reached, that the next turn—and when it comes—will be downward.

A Korean truce might well be the factor that starts the expected readjustment.

Many stock market traders apparently feel that way. Whenever the truce rumors get hot, price weakness spreads through the stock and commodity markets. They reason that a truce will bring on a period of confusion, uncertainty and readjustment in business and government.

Farm surpluses might look bigger then, and the price structure all along the line might look vulnerable.

Consumers might decide to postpone buying until they see where prices are going—or see if there will be plant layoffs that would cut incomes.

Industrialists may decide to live on inventories and slow down on purchases. The urge to build up steel inventories, for example, might lose a lot of its present punch.

Consumers and businessmen might start eyeing each other—and going slow.

Another psychological effect that seems likely is a big build-up of public pressure to stretch out further the government's spending for defense, so that taxes can be cut. The Korean War itself is estimated to have cost 15 billion dollars in its three year course. Total defense spending is many times that figure each year.

Another stretch-out in defense spending would be quickly felt by the industries making arms or supplying those who do.

Ohioan Admits Robbery Case

WATERLOO, N. Y. (AP)—Airman Richard W. Fisher, 18, of Sampson Air Force Base and Wapakoneta, O., pleaded guilty Friday to an indictment charging robbery and assault.

He was indicted in connection with the robbery and beating of a 74-year-old Seneca Falls man, George Lambert, outside a Seneca Falls tavern last Feb. 14. Police said $33 was taken from Lambert.

Mrs. Bobbie Stubbs, 25, of Osceola, Iowa, indicted on the same charges, will be arraigned Tuesday. Seneca County Judge J. Seward Bodine also set Tuesday for sentencing Fisher.

Japs To Release Film Telling Death Of Battleship Yamato

TOKYO (AP)—The last day of a battleship—the death of the mammoth Yamato on a suicide mission late in the Pacific war—will be shown Japanese moviegoers this month in a new documentary film.

The Japanese say the 72,808-ton Yamato, sunk by U. S. carrier planes, was the biggest fighting ship ever built, dwarfing by more than 20,000 tons the largest American battleship afloat.

The Yamato was wrapped in so much secrecy from the time it was built in 1935 until it sank off Kyushu on April 7, 1945—that not even a picture was released. The Japanese Navy refused to confirm there was such a ship.

The last day of the Yamato is not a pleasant memory for any Japanese, but the Japanese people do not resent grim pictures.

Several months ago, the Toei Motion Picture Company filmed “Wild Lily Tower,” an account of Okinawa high school girls who volunteered as nurses and perished in the Okinawa battle. The picture was an all-time boxoffice success. Toei followed with “Gen. Tomoyuki Yamashita,” describing the losing battle of the Philippines. This also was a smash hit.

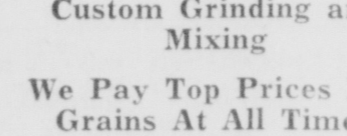

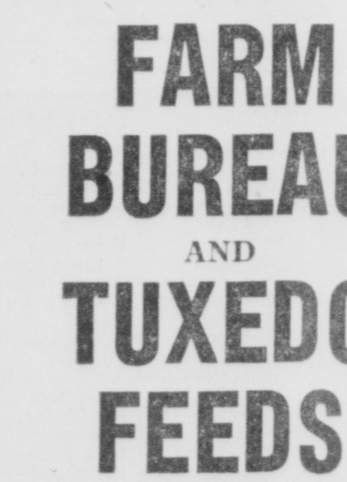

Now Shin Toho Motion Picture Company, producers of several naval epics, including the “sinking” of the U. S. Pacific fleet at Pearl Harbor, has made the Yamato story.

The Yamato, 861 feet long and mounting nine 18-inch guns was equipped with six airplanes, radar and every modern instrument.

The Yamato made its last sortie on a kamikaze special attack (suicide) mission—steaming out of Kure Naval Base for Okinawa with

SECRECY SHROUDS TRUCE TALK

Koreans Open Fierce Drive On War Front

Communists Rip Allied Line, Hold Against Counterattacking Rok

SEOUL (AP)—A beefed-up North Korean battalion ripped through a main line Allied position on the eastern front today and held stubbornly against counterattacking South Koreans.

Some 750 to 1,000 Reds overran three Rok outposts ahead of the main line, then slammed through the line itself in four spots east of Luke's Castle, where bloody fighting has raged for a week.

Another North Korean battalion tore into a South Korean outpost on Bloody Ridge on the east-central front. The Reds met the attack ahead of the outpost but were hurled back in desperate hand-to-hand fighting.

Two prongs of the attack on Luke's Castle area penetrated the main Allied line about 500 yards apart, caving in South Korean positions.

The Reds drove 500 yards into Allied territory, an Eighth Army briefing officer reported.

COUNTER-attacking Rok 12th Division troops, in battle almost steadily since Monday, slammed the Reds back about 250 yards but were cut short as the North Koreans hurled grenades from higher slopes.

At last report the battle, which raged through the night, continued at close range.

On Bloody Ridge, the furiously-attacking Communists stormed the outpost slopes and, at last report, the Rok had withdrawn to the Outpost Center and were streaming mortar and artillery fire on the Reds.

Fighting has been almost continuous on the eastern front hill mass since Monday night when the North Koreans got their first foothold on the tip of Luke's Castle terrain.

30 Million Italian Voters Await Election

ROME (AP)—A law-enforced pre-election calm settled over Italy today as the nation's 30 million voters prepared to ballot for their second postwar parliament.

The voting begins Sunday and will continue Monday. At stake are 590 seats in the Chamber of Deputies and 237 in the Senate.

Confronting the voters are three clearly-marked choices:

1. The middle-of-the-road four-party coalition headed by Premier Alcide De Gasperi, whose pro-United States, pro-European unity government has guided Italy for the past seven years. This center bloc is composed of De Gasperi's Christian Democrats, Republicans, Liberals and Moderate Socialists.
2. The Moscow-facing extreme left of Palmiro Togliatti's Communist party—the biggest this side of the Iron Curtain—and Pietro Nenni's leftwing Socialists. The two parties are running independently but have an accord calling for unity of action.
3. The backward-looking extreme right made up of monarchists and the neo-Fascist Italian Social Movement, which has shown a surprising increase of strength since the end of the war.

Ferguson Hopes Dems Shun Politics In Air Fund Dispute

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Ferguson (R-Mich) said today he hopes Democratic senators "don't make a political matter" of the sizzling dispute about Air Force cutbacks.

Ferguson, chairman of the appropriations subcommittee now considering new funds and spending limits on all defense agencies, said that even the Eisenhower budget might be safely "reduced in some items."

Gen. Hoyt S. Vandenberg, retiring Air Force head, concluded late Friday three full days of testimony in opposition to cutbacks proposed for the Air Force in the Eisenhower budget.

These would trim Former President Truman's request for new funds by $5 billion and lower the 1955 air power goal from 143 to 120 wings.

Vandenberg insisted that a 143-wing Air Force is the minimum level needed to meet the threat of expanding Soviet Russian air power. A wing contains from 30 heavy bombers to 75 smaller aircraft.

Secretary of Defense Wilson, who engineered the Air Force cutback with the aid of Deputy Secretary of Defense Kyes and

Assistant Secretary of Defense McNeil, will return to the Senate committee's witness stand Monday.

Asked to comment on Vandenberg's testimony, Wilson said: "I think the people will be surprised to know how close together we are."

Houston Blast Fatal To 4

Fireworks Storage Area Blows Up

HOUSTON (AP)—Over 40,000 pounds of holiday fireworks exploded here Friday, killing four people, injuring 73 others and causing $3 million damage.

Mayor Roy Hofheinz immediately ordered an investigation as to why the explosives were stored inside the city limits.

The explosion smashed practically everything in the block surrounding the Alco Fireworks and Specialty Company warehouse. At least a dozen homes blazed, fired by flying wreckage. Other homes gaped openly on crowd-filled streets, their windows ripped out, roofs stripped and sides sheared away.

The blast was accompanied by a towering mushroom cloud of white smoke.

The cause apparently can be traced to a hammer being used by Kenneth B. Williams, 35, Alco's general manager.

HE HAD MINOR injuries. He was driving nails into the framework of a pressed-paper display containing explosives.

"I either hit the gerb (cylinder) with the hammer or struck a spark off one of the nails," Williams said. "The whole place was blown up in 15 seconds."

The charred bodies of the four killed were found in the ruins of a small cottage that had stood only 20 feet from the warehouse.

John Walton, a clothing store department manager, collapsed when he was told his entire family had burned to death. They were his wife Jean, 25, and their two children, Cathy, 4, and John Jr., 2.

Park Program Begins Monday

Circleville's 1953 Ted Lewis Park Summer playground program will get underway at 1 p. m. Monday.

This year's annual playground program, directed by Dick Boyd and assisted by Beverly Reid, will be in operation from 1 p. m. until 5 p. m. each weekday afternoon until Aug. 1.

All school-age youngsters of the city are invited to participate in the program, which is co-sponsored by Circleville Kiwanis Club and the city board of education.

Monday's opening program will consist largely of registration activities.

Body Recovered

IRONTON (AP)—The body of an unidentified man, believed to have been a transient who met with foul play, was found Friday stuffed in a culvert near here. Coroner Harry Nenni estimated the man had been dead six months.

Draft Chiefs, Army Debate Liability Of Youths Who Join National Guard

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Army and Selective Service told apparently conflicting views of the draft liability of some members of the National Guard.

An Army manpower officer said today that a man who enlists in the National Guard after he has reached 17 years of age and before he becomes 18½ is exempted from the draft if he serves actively in a recognized guard unit for eight consecutive years.

A Selective Service spokesman, however, said that most National Guardsmen, except those with prior

Association meeting in Sioux City Friday night, Wilson said funds available to the Air Force "are ample to continue a rapid buildup in its effective strength."

He said the money program had been analyzed not only by defense officials "but by the National Security Council and the President himself."

"I know of no one in the whole world more competent to judge such matters than our President. Apparently I am in the peculiar position of a son who goes to his dad for money and his dad insists on the son taking more money than he wants or needs or even thinks is good for him."

Ferguson's comment came after he had listened to a series of questions put to Vandenberg by committee Democrats, including Hill of Alabama, McClellan of Arkansas and Maybank of South Carolina.

Their questions indicated they might fight to restore the long-range 143-wing goal and whatever billions that goal needed.

Ferguson claimed that the Air Force had been unable to spend from four to eight billions voted by Congress in recent years.

He said it had fallen short of all plane production goals since start of the Korean War in mid-1950.

Vandenberg and other Air Force generals conceded this was true but said that, until Congress votes the funds, they can not even place orders for aircraft that require two or more years for production.

Huge Tankers Collide, Burn; Seaman Dies

WILMINGTON, Del. (AP)—One of America's largest seagoing tank ships was sliced in two today in a collision with another giant oil carrier in Delaware Bay.

Eighty-two crewmen of 86 aboard the two ships that burst quickly into flames leaped into the water or boarded lifeboats and were rescued.

The Red Cross listed Joseph Donnelly, 45, of Marcus Hook, Pa., as the only man known dead. He was a crewman making his first trip. Three men are missing, the Red Cross said.

The bow of the tanker Phoenix sank to the bottom of the Delaware River 40 miles south of Philadelphia. Still flaming at dawn, the ship lay a blackened and charred hulk a few hundred yards from the New Jersey shore.

Only a few years old, the Phoenix had a capacity of nine million gallons of petroleum products and when she was launched was the nation's largest.

A shipwreck or two away, the 11,081-ton tanker Pan Massachusetts burned fiercely. Her main deck had sunk to the water level.

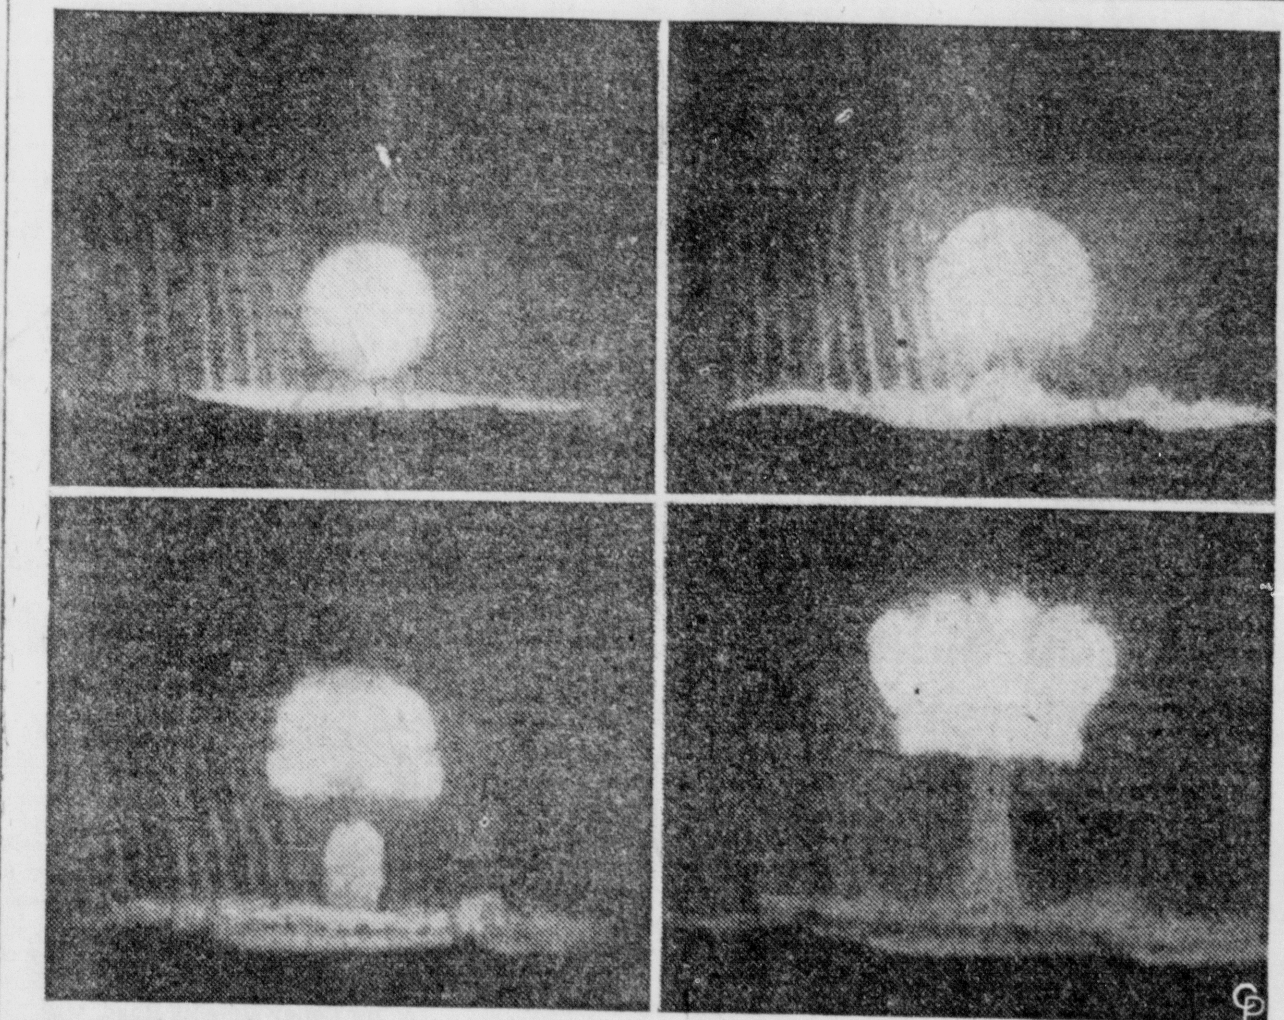

Versions of what happened from members of both ships indicated there was a mixup in signals between the two huge tankers as to how they were going to pass each other.

Naval Academy Graduation Held

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP)—Midshipmen from Ohio graduated Friday by the Naval Academy included: Thomas Edwin Pettit, 23, 481 N. Pickaway St., Circleville.

Don V. Wells, 24, 272 W. Main St., Logan.

Robert Rosser North, 22, 233 Fort St., Nelsonville.

THESE FOUR VIEWS show the huge fireball forming from the 11th and latest explosion of what may have been the most violent atomic blast ever set off in the United States. The scenes were made from Angels Peak near the blast site, when a top-secret experimental device inside an A-bomb casing, dropped from an Air Force B-50, exploded about 2,000 feet above the Yucca Flat proving ground, 65 miles northwest of Las Vegas, Nevada. The terrific blast was seen as far away as San Francisco.

2 Leading GOP Senators OK Taft's Idea For Pacific NATO

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senators Wiley (R-Wis) and H. Alexander Smith (R-N.J.) endorsed today a proposal by Sen. Taft (R-Ohio) that the U. S. seek a military alliance with Britain, France and other allies to counter communism in the Far East.

Wiley, chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said he thinks an alliance similar to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization in Europe ought to be formed in the Pacific.

But whereas Taft suggested the U. S. "disentangle" itself from the UN to form such a Far Eastern pact, Wiley said it ought to be undertaken under the UN charter's provision for regional arrangements.

"We have separate treaties with Australia, New Zealand, Japan and the Philippines," Wiley noted. "The time is coming when all of these nations should be drawn, along with England and France, into a NATO for the Pacific."

WILEY SAID U. S. allies in Europe have "sharply increased their defense expenditures" in the last three years despite slim pocketbooks and said this held out hope that even those NATO allies with weak resources "are pulling and will continue to pull their full share of our mutual security load."

Smith, who heads a foreign relations subcommittee on the Far East, said he always had been in favor of "stronger mutual security agreements in the Far East."

He said this might take the form of a military alliance such as Taft suggested.

But the New Jersey senator said he has some doubt that the U. S. would want to agree, as it did in the NATO pact, that an attack on any one of the members would be regarded as an attack on all.

He pointed out that the French already are under Communist attack in Indochina, adding that he doesn't believe this country would want to send troops to that area although it already is helping the French with military supplies.

"I am glad to see that Taft wants the British and French included in any collective security arrangement to Pacific," Smith said.

Stratojet Sets New Speed Mark

FAIRFORD, England (AP)—An American Stratojet B-47 clipped six minutes off the U. S. to England crossing record today. The aircraft sped the 3,120 mile distance from Limestone Air Base in Maine to this training field in Central England in exactly five hours and a half.

The previous fastest flight from the United States was five hours, 36 minutes, made Friday by two other B-47s. Today's average speed was 556 mph.

Hospital Slices Proposed Boost

COLUMBUS (AP)—The Cleveland Hospital Service Association has sliced an estimated $3 million a year off a new rate proposal and the squabble over the new rates has been settled.

Walter A. Robinson, state superintendent of insurance, Friday announced his approval of the compromise rate increase application. It increases rates to Blue Cross subscribers by an average 27.7 per cent. The association originally asked a 33.4 per cent increase.

3 Critically Hurt As Auto Strikes Bridge

Two men and a woman were injured critically early Saturday when their auto struck a cement bridge on Route 23, about one mile south of Route 762.

The accident happened at about 5:50 a. m. Saturday when a speeding southbound auto applied its brakes on a left turn approaching the bridge.

State Patrolman Gene Miller and Deputy Carl White said Carlin Martin, who lives close to the scene of the crash, said he saw the auto swerve to the right side of the highway when the brakes were applied, then swing back to the left.

The auto, operated by William Ingram, 21, of Lockbourne Air Force Base, then smashed head-on into the east side of the bridge.

INGRAM and two passengers in the car were severely hurt in the crash, which demolished the front end of the car.

A passenger, Alice O'Connor, 42, of Columbus, was rushed into Mercy Hospital, Columbus, for emergency treatment. She was treated for fractures of both arms, a leg fracture and a possible skull fracture. Her condition late Saturday morning was reported "fair."

Ingram and another passenger, Maurice Langbein, 37, of Columbus, both were given emergency treatment in St. Francis hospital, Columbus.

Ingram suffered multiple fractures and a possible skull fracture, and Langbein suffered a possible skull fracture. Both were listed in "serious" condition late Saturday morning.

Actor William Farnum, 76, Dies

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Death from cancer has taken William Farnum, 76, square-jawed stage and silent-screen idol.

The silver-haired actor, who remained clear-eyed and witty despite a year of illness, died here Friday in a hospital.

He was a ranking matinee idol when he came to Hollywood in 1914 and appeared in a film version of a Rex Beach novel, "The Spoilers." His first movie, despite many later successes, was destined to be his best-remembered. It featured his knock-down brawl with actor Tom Santschi—still the standard by which movie fights are judged.

Allied, Red Aides To Meet Again Tonight

Mushrooming Reports Say Agreement Near To End Korean War

PANMUNJOM (AP)—Allied and Communist negotiators met in tight secrecy for 19 minutes today as mushrooming reports of near agreement on the key issue of prisoner exchange bolstered hopes for an armistice in Korea.

There was no official hint of what went on inside the conference hut, but an authoritative South Korean source said "no new proposal was made by either side."

The Reds asked for and got a recess until 11 a. m. Sunday (9 p. m. EST Saturday). The South Korean source indicated without elaboration that progress might be made then.

He described the atmosphere inside the conference hut today as businesslike — "neither good nor bad."

Other observers said the UN Command probably asked for clarification of an hour-long statement read Thursday by North Korean Gen. Nam Il.

THIS WAS reported to have been a counter-proposal virtually paraphrasing the latest UN plan for breaking the long prisoners exchange deadlock, last major barrier to a Korean truce. The Reds were said to have suggested five changes, none of them major.

In Western and Communist capitals around the world hopes mounted that the end of the bloody Korean War was in sight, perhaps before the conflict winds up its third year on June 25.

There was optimism even in Moscow where the official government newspaper Izvestia said:

"It is clear that the sides participating in the talks are extremely close to signing an agreement."

Only in South Korea was there deep gloom.

President Syngman Rhee voiced further violent objections Saturday to the reported armistice terms and unveiled a counter-proposal he sent to President Eisenhower.

Only a few hours earlier, however, Rhee declared that "we would accept almost any proposal the United States asks of us because the United States is the only friendly nation which has done so much for us in the past and who will do much more for us in the future."

TRUCE NEGOTIATORS have met in secrecy since Lt. Gen. William K. Harrison Jr. handed the Communists on May 25 a "now or never" plan to break the prisoner exchange deadlock.

After Saturday's session Lt. Col. Milton Herr, official UN spokesman, would say only that the meetings were still in executive session.

This places the cloak of secrecy around at least the opening of Sunday's session. One source here said negotiators might be waiting until all loose ends are tied up before any announcement is made.

South Korea's truce delegate, Maj. Gen. Choi Duk Shin, again boycotted Saturday's session.

The boycott, which began with the May 25 session, is to protest armistice terms Rhee and other South Korean government leaders have branded "unacceptable," a "death sentence" and a "sellout."

Perfect Student Gives Formula

COLUMBUS (AP)—Ohio State University's "perfect" student today outlined this formula for scholastic success:

"Take studying as it comes and enjoy your work."

Robert A. Schachter, 21, of Cleveland Heights, should know what he's talking about. The personable accounting major will be graduated next Friday as the first male student in OSU history to attain a perfect "A" average for four years of undergraduate work.

6 Graduates Due For Recognition In 1st EUB Rite

Six high school graduates will be recognized at 9:30 a. m. Sunday in a special worship service in First Evangelical United Brethren church.

For this "graduate recognition" service, the Rev. Carl L. Wilson will speak from the theme, "God and You," from a scriptural directive in II Timothy 1:6—"Stir up the gift of God, which is in thee." Each graduate will receive a gift from the church school.

Opening the service, Mrs. Verneal Thomas will play a prelude, "Steadfast and True," followed by the Fidelity Chorus processional hymn, "Holy, Holy, Holy."

Church School Superintendent Edwin Richardson will lead the congregation in the call to worship, invocation and the reaffirmation of a common faith in praise, doctrine and prayer.

Speaking from the text in II Timothy 1:6, the Rev. Carl L. Wilson says, in part: "It takes a great deal of thought and planning to erect a building of any kind. First of all the original idea must exist in somebody's mind, then in blueprint form, and then carried out in actuality. At last it stands complete for its purpose."

"How like life is this entire process? There is a 'divinity' that shapes our ends. God has a specific task in mind for each person. He is the Master Designer and Architect. While we do not always live up to the specifications as designed in His blueprint, nevertheless our lives take a certain course. God has given each one certain personalities and individualities, so that through our individual lives we may contribute toward the broader and higher ends of mankind."

"In other words, God says to each person: 'You are You.' You are an individual; now go ahead, stir up the gift within your life in the best way you know how. And because you are you, it is your responsibility to find your place in life and to give expression in holy living. This challenge comes to every high school graduate."

Church school classes will study a Bible lesson, "Principles of Christian Stewardship."

Senior High Methodist Youth Fellowship will meet at 6 p. m. Sunday in the home of Robert Wolford, Circleville Route 3. Election of officers and the making of homemade ice cream will be features of the program.

Worship Rites Are Readied In Christ Church

Sermon topic planned for worship Sunday in church of Christ, meeting at 159 E. Main St., will be, "They Have Taken Away My Lord." This theme is suggested by the statement made by Mary Magdalene when she came to the open sepulchre where Jesus had been laid after his crucifixion and found him not there (John 20).

"Christ, in many instances, has been removed from his rightful place in the world today," suggests Evangelist Charles Cochran.

"We see him removed from being head of the church, and earthly heads substituted in his stead, when inspiration says, 'And hath put all things under his feet, and gave him to be the head over all things to the church, which is his body, the fullness of him that filleth all in all' (Eph. 1:22-23)."

"We see other foundations being laid upon which to build, when Paul said, 'For other foundation can no man lay than that is laid, which is Jesus Christ' (I Cor. 3:11)."

"Other names are being used through which to offer praise unto God when Paul said, 'And whatsoever ye do in word or deed, do all in the name of the Lord Jesus, giving thanks to God and the Father by him' (Col. 3:17)."

"Other authorities are being accepted as standards in religion other than Christ, notwithstanding the fact that he said, 'All authority is given unto me in heaven and in earth' (Matt. 28:18)."

"Some have taken away Christ from their worship and in his stead have substituted the worship of riches, pleasure, worldly glory and idol gods."

"In order to be pleasing to God Christ must be exalted to his rightful place in our hearts, in our lives and in our practices."

Sessions of the conference will be opened Tuesday morning by Bishop Hazen G. Werner, with a communion service and a service honoring ministers and ministers' wives who have died during the conference year.

As statistician of the Ohio Annual Conference, the Rev. Mr. Weaver will report Wednesday to ministers and lay delegates of 1,174 churches in which 304,518 members have been listed for this year, a gain of 1,264 members over last year. He will report gains in all phases of the church school program of the conference.

Gains also will be reported in all phases of the total program of the church organizations, such as the Methodist Men's groups, Woman's Society of Christian Service and the Methodist Youth Fellowship.

He will give special emphasis to the gain in property value of churches—nearly $5 million; the increase of the value of Methodist parsonages—nearly $500,000; and to the increase of other assets of the church—$436,617.

Appointments for the new conference year will be announced by the Bishop's cabinet at the closing session of the conference on June 14.

Installation Day To Be Observed In Calvary EUB

"Installation Sunday" will be observed during worship service in Calvary Evangelical United Brethren church.

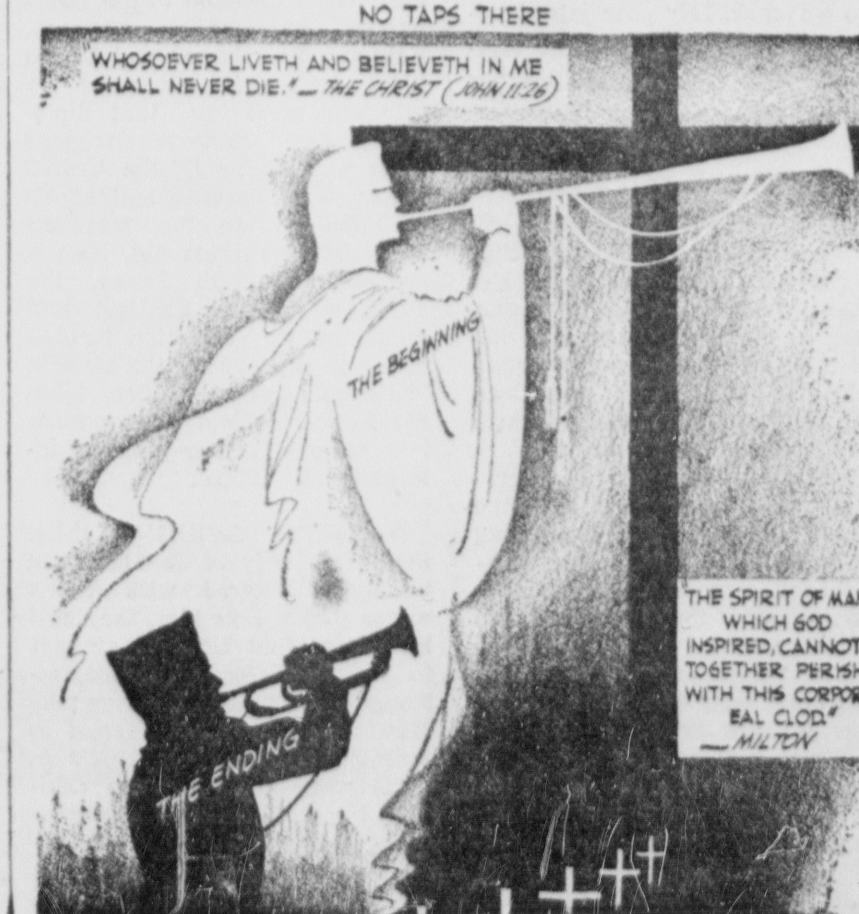

During the service, the children's department and their teachers will be with the adults in the sanctuary of the church for a combined worship service together.

Principles of Christian Stewardship

ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—II Corinthians 8-9

The Christians in Jerusalem were in need and the churches in Corinth and Macedonia were asked to contribute to help them. Paul writes that he is sending Titus and two companions to Corinth to collect the bounty.

In the matter of giving, Paul writes: "He which soweth sparingly, shall reap also sparingly; and he which soweth bountifully shall reap bountifully. So let him give not grudgingly or of necessity, for God loveth a cheerful giver."

The generous givers will be "enriched in everything to all bountifulness, for the administration of this service not only supplieth the want of the saints, but it is abundant also by thanksgiving unto God," writes Paul.

The Jerusalem Christians would not only be grateful for the generous contributions for their comfort, but would glorify and give thanks to God for their brethren in Christ, and would pray for them. MEMORY VERSE—II Corinthians 9:7.

EVEREST CONQUERED

A PARTY OF BRITISH mountain climbers conquered Mt. Everest after 10 expeditions had failed. In failing they had, it is true, accumulated information and experience to help future climbers. Equipment to enable men to live and move in the thin air more than five miles up was steadily improved.

But the final challenge of the great mountain, the cold and the winds, the sudden storms and avalanches, could not be met in advance by skill and ingenuity. The last assault on the peak still called for the last ounce of courage and good fortune.

Two men have stood where no man stood before. The aspiration upward is a fundamental human drive that is reflected not only in the imagery of poetry but in the turns of ordinary language. But to those who climb mountains the adventure is more than an exercise in metaphor. In his novel, "The White Tower," James Ullman describes some of the complex motives that may drive men to test themselves against wind and precipice.

And the mountain, too, he suggests, is more than a high place. "Innocent of struggle or aspiration, of conquest or defeat, it rose in austere and gentle certitude to its appointed place in the sky—and stopped. It was a fact. It existed."

Everest has been conquered. But the larger symbolic truth is that it remains and will forever remain unconquerable. Perhaps other men will reach the summit. Certainly others will try, for the mountain will always seem the ultimate entity for which man forever reaches and which he never grasps.

AMAZING AUTO INDUSTRY

WITH PRODUCTION SO FAR this year 40 per cent ahead of figures for the similar period last year, America's amazing automobile industry is preparing to set a still higher output record during the last half of the year.

Again those who predicted the "saturation" point in automobile sales was being reached are face to face with the task of determining how they could have been so wrong. So confident are automobile company executives of the outlook for the immediate future, news from Detroit is that only minor changes will be made in 1954 models, to avoid interference with production while engaged in model changeover.

The automobile industry is providing a real challenge to road builders, and it may yet prove to be the case that automobile output will eventually be throttled by lack of roads to accommodate more cars.

WASHINGTON, June 6—"Does Senator Taft's criticism of the United Nations, especially his implied suggestion that the United States go it alone in Korea, reflect the sentiment of a majority in Congress?" inquires F. C. of Los Angeles, Calif.

MISINTERPRETED — Answer: I am amazed at the unjustifiably excitable reaction to Senator Taft's speech. Like Clement Attlee's supposed attack on the United States, it was misunderstood and misinterpreted here and abroad.

President Eisenhower had to answer it only for that reason, namely, to calm foreign fears that we might pull out of UN. With only a few exceptions, for-

JUSTIFICATION—Taft has his

George E. Sokolsky's

These Days

Senator Robert A. Taft has supported President Eisenhower, in both his domestic and foreign policies, with a blind fidelity wholly unexpected in a man of his stature and independence. Other Republicans, particularly those who had supported Taft for the Presidency, were surprised and often displeased over this attitude; yet Taft's position is understandable in the nature of his personality.

Eisenhower won the nomination; therefore Taft labored for Eisenhower valiantly as though he were the candidate himself. Strictly a believer in the party system, his attitude was that the winner takes all.

Since January 3, when Congress opened, he has continued to support Eisenhower without equivocation on the ground that Eisenhower is entitled to a period of acclimatization and reorganization.

However, when it is evident that there is danger of a peace with Soviet Russia over Korea on the low basis of appeasement, without honor or dignity; when Taft believed that both South Korea, which has fought valiantly and suffered great losses, and Formosa, which has held on to an anti-Communist outpost in Asia, are likely to be betrayed; he had to speak out. Otherwise, he would be a man without integrity.

The speech which his son read for him in Cincinnati, because the Senator was ill, does not end his support of General Eisenhower nor does it end his efforts to achieve and maintain unity within the Republican Party. Yet, this must be said because it is true: the Republican Party, particularly in the Senate, tends toward an individualism which makes party management difficult.

One reason for this is that Senators and party leaders, whether supporters of Ike or otherwise before the convention, find that he is separated from them by too many echelons and they cannot become accustomed to some of the personalities that surround the President, too many of whom serve as a palace guard who keep him from those upon whose support he must count.

Republicans who need to have business with the President cannot get accustomed to the Chief of Staff arrangement by which Sherman Adams acts as President ex-officio. Nor do they quite grasp the relationship between themselves and the various committees and experts upon whom the President tends to depend even in legislative matters.

General Walter Bedell Smith, who acts as Secretary of Foreign Affairs most of the time, because John Foster Dulles travels so much, is more favorably known than most of the White House entourage.

Republican Senators are neither accustomed to his crisp ways, undoubtedly normal to the Army, nor do they altogether understand why there seem to be so many foreign ministers, as it were, namely John Foster Dulles, General Smith, Allen Dulles in CIA, Harold Stassen, C. D. Jackson in the President's office.

Recent wedding in New York is reported to have cost $100,000. Cost of acquiring a son-in-law has advanced with other aspects of inflation.

Gen. Nathan Twining says the United States has enough atomic bombs to blow Russia off the map. But can it be done some morning before breakfast?

What Taft said—Taft did not say that the U. S. should "go it alone in Korea." He said that we should "go it alone in the Korean truce negotiations," referring to the British desire to negotiate peace at almost any cost, which would cause American prestige and influence in Asia and Africa to disappear.

The senator said what everybody admits, namely, that the UN is a futile body in preventing or conducting wars. Had not Russia been sulking and its delegation absent, the Moscow veto would have kept the UN from voting for resistance to the Communist invasion of South Korea. And now we are getting only token military aid from member nations there, perhaps 50,000 in a force of one million men on or behind the fighting lines.

MAJORITY AGREE—I think that a majority of Senate-House membership agree with Taft's major thesis. Like him, they still have hope that UN will amount to a world force for peace, although Russian recalcitrancy presents a full and final barrier to that objective.

Taft may be subject to criticism because of the untimeliness of his remarks, which may frustrate efforts toward a Korean armistice. But the senator doesn't torical justification for branding the UN as "ineffective." Despite their vocal devotion to the international organization, Truman, Acheson, Eisenhower and Dulles have admitted it.

In our most important diplomatic and military decisions since World War II, the United States has bypassed and short-circuited UN. In the Marshall Plan, Greco-Turkish aid, NATO, our alliances with Japan, the Philippines, New Zealand and Australia, we conducted foreign policy on the basis of the historic "balance of power" lines. Likewise, our technical aid program is a national rather than an international venture.

Don't expect too much—or anything—on political money or bonds or other securities issued before 1925. Most of them were wiped out by the Dawes-Young negotiators of that day. Holders must submit proof of legitimate purchase and ownership, as the Russians tried to cash already redeemed securities after they seized Hitler's vaults in May, 1945.

Abnormal Posture of the Neck May Contribute to Rheumatism

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

MANY people bring aches and pains on themselves by unconscious misuse of their own bodies. Unnatural stresses and strains, continued for long periods, are found to be at the bottom of much of the rheumatism these people complain of when they get over the age of forty.

The most common site for rheumatism at this age is the vertebrae of the neck. These people complain of aching and soreness of the neck, or painful "cricks" in the neck. It is not uncommon for this type of rheumatism to cause severe headaches and shoulder pain.

Excess Stress

One cause of this disturbance is fatigue from excess stress on the bony supports of the neck. We could cause the same sort of trouble by holding an arm or leg too long in one position.

In the case of the neck, the unnatural posture is unsuspected, even though it is causing pain. In many, it is a forward thrust of the head, common in occupations such as typing, sewing, working over a low table and driving a car. Many people who read in bed or sleep on high pillows complain of similar symptoms.

Seen in TV Fans

Recently, a number of these symptoms has been seen in television fans whose TV sets are not placed at the proper height, distance or position.

Along with the faulty posture,

a loss of minerals from the bones as age increases may contribute to rheumatism.

The treatment for rheumatism and unnatural stress is simple in principle but often quite difficult to carry out, because it is not easy to change one's habits. A careful survey must be made to determine the abnormal posture. Sometimes, a small soft pillow may be used in the proper position under the neck. Heat and massage are also sometimes of help.

Hormone Treatment

The loss of minerals in the bones can also be remedied. Sometimes it is traced to a lack of enough female hormone in women going through the change of life. Treatment with hormones is usually corrective in these cases. If they are treated early enough, curvature of the spine may be prevented.

Above all, a person should correct his faulty and dangerous habits of posture. He must be allowed to rest when tired and to take frequent breaks in his work to relieve the stress on his neck.

CHAPTER NINETEEN
CARLOTTA was wearing a black slack suit which set off her slim hips to perfection and her dark heavy hair was smoothly coiled as usual. When he saw her, Larry tried to get the flask back into his pocket, but he was not quick enough.

"Drinking again?" she asked coldly.

"I needed it," Larry defended himself. "You don't know what happened to the captain."

"I know all about it," Carlotta silenced him, but she did not disclose the source of her information. Instead, she returned to the attack. "I should think you would want to let that stuff alone. Now of all times."

"Why now?"

"Because you might want to be able to keep your mouth shut."

"I'll keep my mouth shut all right. And so will he. I paid him to."

"If I didn't know what Larry was talking about, it was evident that Carlotta did, for she looked at him agnast."

"Do you mean to tell me that you gave him what he wanted?"

"What else could I do?"

"You fool. You dope. You've played right into his hands."

"But he said he saw it when he unpacked."

"Will you shut up!" Carlotta fairly screamed at him. "You'll ruin all of us. Oh, why couldn't I have married a man!"

"Shut up yourself. You were glad to get me after old Tremaine shot himself. There weren't many other takers then. I saved you, and you know it."

"You saved me!" Carlotta shrieked. "Why you poor little rich boy, I was taking care of myself when you were still running to your nanny to get your pants buttoned. You wouldn't have a penny today if I hadn't showed you how to handle it. Do you suppose it was the end of me because one old fool couldn't stand the gas?"

No body was going to get me down, and nobody ever will. But I'm not sure that I can save you, now."

"I was trying to protect you," Larry said.

There was a long and terrifying silence, and I have heard rattle snakes sound more friendly than Carlotta when she spoke again.

"What are you hinting at?"

Larry was both drunk and confused, but not beyond realizing that he had put a foot wrong. He took refuge in a sulky defiance.

"If people get to know I had a gun, you know what they'll think. You knew I had it, didn't you?" he asked.

For a while there was no human sound to compete with the shrieking of the storm, then Carlotta's hot whisper came again.

"You really do want to get rid of me, don't you?"

"Don't look at me like that, Carlotta. I haven't done a thing." Larry was definitely scared.

"I was a fool not to see it before. It's Gay, of course. You want to marry Gay."

"Not Gay. Not Gay," said Larry urgently.

"Yes, Gay."

She had been standing over him when he answered three calls over the week-end.

so concentrated that she seemed unaware of it.
I followed her eyes, and saw a knife—a sportsman's model for gutting fish—with a polished wooden handle and a curved blade, the sort of knife an enthusiast might bring if he hoped for deep-sea fishing.

As Carlotta pulled herself toward the corner where the knife had rolled, I started for the door. Neither of us could move quickly. It was like one of those nightmares in which time has slowed down. The smaller chairs were being flung from one side of the room to the other. They attacked us, impeded us. Crossing the salon was an obstacle race in slow motion—an obstacle race with death.

I moved sideways because I was afraid to take my eyes off Carlotta who had managed to grab the knife and who was brandishing it in her hand. I screamed and began to run.

Suddenly it opened behind me, and I fell backward into the passage.

"Hello there!" exclaimed a familiar voice.

"Robert! Oh, Robert! Robert!" I couldn't do more at first than babble his name, while tears of relief ran down my face. Robert was picking me up. Robert was setting me on my feet, making comforting noises. He wore a dark zipper suit which he had left over from air-raid days, and even in my agitation I noticed that it was as wet as if he had been swimming in it. The door had banged shut as the ship lurched. I pointed to it.

"In there. In there. She was going to kill me."

"What's this?" Robert asked. "Steady on, darling."

The door had not latched, and now it freakishly swung wide again, and showed us Carlotta, lying back on one of the sofas, smoking a cigaret. Robert helped me back into the room, and Carlotta sat up, looking surprised. The hand which held her cigaret did not shake.

"She was going to kill me," I said. "I overheard something, and she was going to kill me

Mrs. S. Brudzinski Elected President Of Junior Women

Mrs. Ray W. Davis Is Guest Speaker

Mrs. Ray W. Davis was the speaker and installed the new officers for Circleville Junior Woman's Club when they met on Thursday evening for a dinner meeting at the Wardell Party Home. In quoting from the report of Junior club activities in the 48 states she said that more than 2 million people benefited from the work done by Junior Clubs during the past year. She told something about such personalities as Mrs. Eisenhower, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Nixon, Mary Pickford and Martha Roundtree, all of whom participated in the convention.

Officers installed by Mrs. Davis at the close of the meeting were Mrs. Steve Brudzinski, president; Mrs. Richard Penn, vice-president; Mrs. James Carr, recording secretary; Mrs. Ray Friend, corresponding secretary; and Mrs. Paul R. Porter, treasurer.

Club members are to meet on June 15, in the home of Mrs. Davis to draft final plans for this project, for which Mrs. Kenneth Luna has been named general chairman. On June 28, the club has planned a picnic and members are not only planning to invite their own families, but each is also inviting a new neighbor family, in an effort to get acquainted with some of the many newcomers who have recently come to Circleville.

Miss Marlene Mancini and Miss Joya Disbennett, winner and alternate in the Scholarship contest sponsored recently by Junior Woman's Club were guests for this meeting. Also present were Mrs. George Van Camp who with Mrs. Davis serves as a sponsor for the group and Mrs. John H. Carr of Decatur, Ala. who is a house guest of Mrs. James Carr.

Ants In Gardens Dry Out Soil

Ants in gardens and flower beds dry out soil. This injures root systems unless the insects are discouraged by cultivation or insecticides, a specialist at Ohio State University said today.

T. H. Parks, extension entomologist, advised using psychology to drive ants out of gardens. If their nests are stirred with hoe or rake every time one is discovered, ants will take the hint and leave.

If cultivation is not possible, homemakers may use 5 per cent chlordane powder on the nests and ground where ants run but not directly on flowers.

These methods also apply to vegetable and flower gardens not close to the home, Parks said.

A Picture....

That Makes You Think

Most people would say this is a picture of a newspaperboy throwing a paper, and that would be all. Now if you were this boy's father you would probably say, "Look, here's Jack's picture in the paper. Isn't that something to be proud of?"

No—it isn't the fact that the picture is something to be proud of. It's what Jack is doing! He's aiming a newspaper at the threshold of experience. He's walking down the street of self-enterprise. He's carrying in his sack, separate bundles of responsibility.

He's wearing a smile of self satisfaction in the knowledge that he's earning his OWN money.

Yes, Dad, that's just part of it. If you want your boy to meet people and know people so necessary for later life, then look at the picture again. Don't you agree it makes you think?!

Fellow Ohioan Tells Greatest Sports Thrill

By MIKE PEPPE
Ohio State U. Swimming Coach
COLUMBUS, O. (AP)—Swimming has provided me many, many thrilling moments.

Spine-tingling diving contests involving Ohio State University competitors for national and Olympic honors, and spectacular record-breaking feats in highest flight swimming competition by numerous Buckeye champions, make it rather difficult to select the one big thrill.

Yet, a certain diving performance March of 1946 remains most unforgettable.

In the fall of 1941 a great young diving prospect from Chicago enrolled at Ohio State. The following spring, while still a freshman, he captured his first major title—the senior NAAU indoor three-meter dive at New Haven, Conn.

In the contest he defeated a group of seasoned divers, including intercollegiate champion Frank Dempsey and Charley Batterman of Ohio State, and Jimmy Cooke of Yale.

Here was a comer who had everything—appearance, poise, keen acrobatic sense and timing, and a fine competitive spirit. It looked like a remarkable future for the lad, due to start his varsity career in 1942.

But meanwhile, a certain fracas—World War II—intervened. Our college boys were pouring into service. This youngster promptly enlisted in the Army Air Force.

In 1944, after 112 missions as a fighter pilot, he was shot down by the Germans. Ultimate result—a badly shattered left leg and prisoner of war.

When the U. S. A. surgeons finally got to him, metal splints were placed in the upper leg and he was advised to forget diving.

The recovery process was long

Knight Star Shines In Westbury Win

WESTBURY, N. Y. (AP)—Knight Star, one of the top two-year-old pacers of 1952, made his debut as three-year-old Friday night and turned in a sensational victory at Roosevelt Raceway.

Owned by P. G. and Jere Gray of East Providence, R. I., he was clocked in 2:03.3, best time of the year for a three-year-old pacer. Vernon Elkingston set a sizzling pace, going the half-mile in 1:00.4, best for any sidewheeler of any age this year. Frank Safford brought Knight Star alongside the pace-setter at the top of the stretch and went on to win by a length. Coast-line was third.

and tedious. First crutches, then a cane, and so on. Back in school in the fall of 1945, he limped about the campus until December, then decided to take a whirl at diving again.

The weakened left take-off leg couldn't take the strain, so he changed to the right. This was virtually an impossible adjustment, like a southpaw pitcher learning to throw right-handed.

But the medics had not calculated on this boy's spirit and determination. Three months of grueling practice enabled him to gradually regain his leg strength, despite abortive competition in five or six dual meets in January and February.

Then, on March 9, 1946, Miller Anderson rendered me my greatest thrill!

In one of the finest comebacks in the history of sport, he annexed his first Western Conference diving title. It was no fluke. The competition was keen and spirited, but Anderson's performance was flawless.

Later that season, Miller gathered additional titles in NCAA and NAAU championships. He went on to gain many more conference and national titles, and successfully represented the U. S. A. in the 1948 and 1952 Olympic games.

That boy—Miller Anderson—he was great!

Joe Hiestand Wins Seventh State Crown

MIDDLETOWN (AP)—Joe Hiestand, Hillsboro farmer and master shotgun artist, Friday walked off with his seventh singles championship. He successfully defended his title in the Ohio Trapshoot Tournament.

He had to break 50 straight targets in a shootoff this time, however, as he wound up in a tie with George Wagner, Dayton. Wagner missed a target and so was relegated to runner-up position.

Both Wagner and Hiestand shattered 198 of 200 targets. Ned Lilly, Stanton, Mich., and C. V. Bracher, Cleveland, also broke 198, but both were ineligible for the shootoff, Lilly being a non-Ohioan and Bracher a pro.

The women's crown went to Mae Ramey, Miamisburg, with 182 of 200, topping Mrs. H. L. McKinley, Harrisburg, with 178.

Other individual winners were: Dave Dickas, Sidney, 93 of 100 for the junior championship; Mr. and Mrs. H. L. McKinley, Harrisburg, 46 of 50 in a shootoff for the husband and wife award, to 44 of 50 for Mr. and Mrs. Frank Barger, Dayton, who tied them in regular firing with 367 of 400; and Dr. J. L. Michaels, Wilmington, unopposed for the senior championship, with only shooters 70 years old or more eligible.

The Southwestern Ohio team of Heistand, Wagner, Leslie Trees of Plain City, Elmer Lucas of Peebles, and Roy Davidson of Middletown won the zone team shoot title with 483 of 500 targets. They will represent Ohio in the state team shoot at the Grand American in Vandalia.

Big Bill Tilden Is Dead At Age 60

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Big Bill Tilden, who popularized the game of tennis in America and was generally considered the sport's all-time master, is dead at 60, apparently of a heart attack.

The rangy ruler of the courts during the decade of the 1920s was found dead in his modest apartment Friday evening.

In a nationwide poll conducted three years ago, Big Bill—the man with dynamite in his racket—was chosen No. 1 tennis player of the half century.

Insurance Man Cops Senior Test

Ross shot his 69 over the Apawamis Club course Friday and put together with his 73 first round it gave him a 36-hole total of 142 and a four stroke margin over Weller Noble of Berkeley, Calif.

Ike Presides As Democrats Defeat GOP

WASHINGTON (AP)—Dwight D. Eisenhower, who led the Republicans to victory last November, presided over a GOP defeat here Friday night.

With the Chief Executive looking on, after throwing out the first ball, Republican members of Congress lost to the Democrats 3-2 in an uproarious five inning benefit baseball game in Griffith Stadium.

GOP pitcher Glenn Davis of Wisconsin had the Democrats well in hand, 2-0, until the fatal fifth. The Democrats pushed across two runs and then, with the score tied, Davis walked Rep. Mendel Rivers of South Carolina to fill the bases. He hit the next batter, Rep. Hugh Adonizio of New Jersey, on the hand to force in the winning run.

Davis allowed only three hits. Rep. Don Wheeler of Georgia, pitching for the Democrats, was nicked for four. Charitably, nobody kept track of the errors.

A crowd of 4,609 saw the game, an annual event played for a summer camp fund for underprivileged children.

Eisenhower, hatless and wearing a dark summer suit, seemed to have a fine time.

His opening pitch dropped into a scrambling mass of uniformed congressmen. Rep. Landrum (D-Ga) came up with the ball and triumphantly presented it for the presidential autograph.

Forfeiture Denied In Race Squabble

COLUMBUS (AP)—George M. Trautman today set aside the forfeiture of a May 20 Cotton States League game between Hot Springs, Ark., and Jackson, Miss., and ordered the contest played.

Trautman, president of the National Association of Professional Baseball Leagues, said the "conclusion is inescapable that the game of May 20 was forfeited because Hot Springs proposed to play James Tugerson, a Negro player."
